Local flags fly at Olympics

Local company makes 48,000 American flags

By SUSAN R. HARRIS Editor

Perquimans County won't host the U.S. Olympic Summer Games. No county athletes will enter the field of competition. But this small North Carolina county is playing a role in the games that will draw people from all across the globe to Atlanta, Ga.

As people enter the opening ceremonies of the Summer Games in Atlanta, 48,000 flags made in Perquimans County will be distributed to them, according to Carl Terranova, president of Apricot, Inc., located on Don Juan Road in Hertford.

Apricot, Inc. was contracted to produce 4,000 dozen flags for distribution during the Olympic ceremonies.

Terranova said a "friend of a friend" recommended the local company be contacted about making the flags. The company's reputation for producing quality work in a timely manner is responbile for the contract.

For weeks now, the production area at Apricot, Inc. has been colored red, white and blue as employees have worked to fill the Olympicsized order.

"There are flags everywhere," Terranova said.

Terranova said Apricot employees seem to be pleased that the company was chosen to produce the flags.

"They (the employees) think it's pretty neat," Terranova "They're impressed."

And Terranova gave much of the credit for Apricot's flag contract to the quality work produced by the company's

"It's not just the Terranova family represented, but the employees as well. It's our reputation, all of us (that led to the contract)," Terranova said. "We all take pride in our work."

When millions of television viewers watch the opening ceremonies of the Olympics, they probably will not realize that almost 50,000 of the American flags that are sure to be waving around the stadium were made in a place most have never even heard of, Perquimans County, North

Chamber primed for success

Indian Summer '96 set to be the best ever

By SUSAN R. HARRIS Editor

Indian Summer Festival 1996 will feature the biggest name ever to grace a local festival stage.

Bill Deal and Fat Ammon, "The Sheiks of Shag," will play for the street dance that traditionally climaxes the festival, according to Chamber of Commerce Executive Director Sandra Smith said Deal called to confirm the engagement this weekend.

"We are so excited to have Bill Deal and Fat Ammon coming to our festival," Smith said. "The Chamber expects to draw many people to enjoy the band and street dance. We hope that while our visitors are here, they will feel welcome, look at all we have to offer here in Perquimans County and make plans to return." The festival is planned for Saturday, September 21.

The day's events will begin at 8 a.m., Commission, the gala from 8-11 p.m. There is no charge for the dance.

Smith said applications for booth rentals are available at the Chamber office. Booths rent for $35 each. Food, displays, arts, crafts and other items may be sold at the festi-

The festival is just one facet of the work done by the Chamber to promote Perquimans County. The group is actively involved in historic preservation, the annual county Christmas parade, the 4th of July festivities, business support and recruitment, regional economic affairs, downtown revitalization and education.

The Chamber Board of Directors voted to make Smith its full-time executive director last week. She formerly worked part-time. Smith said she and the board felt that the move to keep the Chamber office open and operating full-time shows the Chamber's commitment to Perquimans County's economic well-being.

Smith is now looking for volunteers to man the office when she must be out of

"I want this office door open all during office hours," Smith said.

In January, the board gave Smith the green light to recruit a team to establish a countywide historic commission to promote the rich history of the county. Smith chose Becky Winslow to chair the commission. Winslow put together what Smith calls "a talented and proficient team" composed of co-chair Betty Stokes, Nancy Rascoe, Charles Skinner, Albert Eure, Jeri Oltman and Mary Darden Uker of the N.C. Department of Commerce. The group is leading the effort to establish non-restrictive historic districts throughout the county. Smith said the commission is taking the right steps to establish the districts. The ultimate goal is to help establish a tourism industry in the county.

A fundraiser sponsored by the Chamber will be held on July 28 at Front Street home of Lucille Winslow to help defray the expenses of the research involved in establishing the districts.

The Chamber will host a reception honoring recently appointed Elizabeth City State University Chancellor Mickey Burnin on July 24 at Albemarle Plantation.

Downtown revitalization is a major concern of the Chamber, and Smith said she is working closely with Perquimans Economic Director Robert Baker to develop a strategic plan for revitalization and downtown improvement. The Chamber is also actively represented on the InterAgency Council, the with the street dance closing Northeastern North Carolina Tourism Professionals and several other groups.

"We're just really making a lot of good networking connections," Smith said. "Where we can promote Perquimans County, we are there. We're exploring every avenue of development.'

With 40 new members this year, the Chamber is growing. A newsletter has been established to help keep members informed about Chamber activities.

The Chamber board is described by Smith as active and progressive.

"I have a wonderful, supportive, progressive board, Smith said. "I'm just really enthused at my board. They committed Perquimans County."

Larry Swindell serves as Chamber president. Paige Eure is vice president, Smith is secretary, and Gail Godwin is treasurer. Board members include Diane Stallings, Douglas Layden, Leo Higgins, Anna Smith, Alice Jean Winslow, Laurence Chappell and Billy Nixon. The board meets the fourth Tuesday of every month at the Chamber office. The meetings are open to all members; however, Smith said because of space limitations, those wishing to attend should call ahead.

"I can't wait to get up and come to work every day, Smith said. "I love my job and I'm really proud of what we are accomplishing here. People are excited about Perquimans County. I can just feel it in the air.

"With the vision, cooperation and desire to be a part of the growth of the county I've seen in the board, I am certain Perquimans County has a bright future."

Lady Tigers win State Games gold

PCMS team takes third season crown

By SUSAN R. HARRIS Editor

The Perquimans County Middle School Lady Tigers softball team picked up its third championship of the season Sunday with a gold medal at the State Games of North Carolina.

In April, the team defeated First Flight and Camden to Perquimans take the Invitational Tournament championship for the second straight year. When the Coastal Athletic Conference season ended in May, the Lady Tigers had tallied a 13-1 record to take a share of the conference crown. Playing their last games as a team in June, the squad won three games to take its second consecutive 14-andunder slow pitch title at the State Games. The team's overall record is 18-1.

"This team did something no other team in Perquimans Middle School history has done," said Lady Tigers coach Sid Eley. "They played hard this year and every member of our team truly contributed. At some point during the season, every one of our players made the key play or had the key hit. It was just a super effort by the
