Local volunteers honored by governor

The Governor's Office of Citizen and Community Services announced on Nov. 23 the recipients of the 1998 Governor's Awards for Outstanding Volunteer Service for the North/East Region of the state. Gov. and Mrs. Hunt will honor 177 individuals and 51 groups from 34 counties on Monday, Dec. 7 at the Dunn Center for the Performing Arts on the campus of North Carolina Wesleyan College in Rocky Mount. The ceremony will begin at 4 p.m.

"These award recipients represent the best North Carolina has to offer," Gov. Hunt said. "I commend them for dedicating their time and talents to creating a brighter future for all North Carolinians."

The Governor's Awards for Outstanding Volunteer Service was first awarded in 1979 by Gov. Hunt, and 1998 marks the 20th consecutive year that individuals, groups and businesses have been honored for providing exemplary service to their communities on a volunteer basis.

At his statewide Volunteer Summit in January, Gov. Hunt challenged each county in North Carolina to hold a countywide volunteer summit during 1997 - "The Year of the Volunteer." Since January, 69 counties have either held or planned summits to determine their volunteer needs and how their communities can work together to meet those needs. In January, Hunt also challenged North Carolinians to meet President Clinton's America's Promise goal of establishing 40,000 volunteer mentors for at-risk youth in every state.

Recipients from Perquimans County include Alice Delphine Barr, Sharman Haskett, Eugene P. Knight, Pat Parks, Connie Casper Townsend and Relay for Life (American Cancer Society).

Barr was noted for her work with the county's senior citizens; Haskett for her efforts to preserve history through the Perquimans County Restoration Association; Knight for his volunteerism through the Governor's One-On-One Program working with troubled youth; Parks for fundraising for C.M.N. and White Christmas; Townsend for activities through 4-H; and the Relay for Life team for surpassing its fundraising goal in 1998.

Our news deadline is Friday at 5 p.m.

Note of Thanks

Individual help and area church support in the Thanksgiving Day Dinner. Thanks to individuals who donated food and those who volunteered their time and services in preparing and delivering meals. Special thanks goes to Pastor John H. London and members of First Baptist Church for their services and the use of their Fellowship Hall and Facilities. May God bountifully bless them and keep them in his care.
