LOCKS OF LOVE

Samantha Jordan, daughter of Wayne and Susan Jordan, shed her locks for the Locks of Love campaign, a nonprofit organization that creates wigs for young cancer survivors. This is the second time Samantha has grown her hair for the cause, this time donating approximately 11 inches. Wendy Jordan of Shear Pleasure in Edenton cut Samantha's hair, also donating her time for the cause.

Pia hydrangea will be among the specimens on display at the AEA garden open house and plant sale.

AEA holds garden open house, plant sale

A Garden Open House and Plant Sale will be held at the home of Bob and Carolyn Hess on Sunday, June 19, 2-5 pm.

Over a thousand plants, including shrubs, daylilies, hostas, and perennials will be for sale at low prices. There is no charge for the open house. Income from the plant sale will support activities sponsored by the Albemarle Environmental Association. In the past funds have been used for native gardens at area schools, recycling programs, scholarships and gifts to state parks. All plants are propagated on site by master gardeners without use of pesticides and are suitable for local soils and climate. Visitors can see mature specimens growing in the extensive gardens. Master gardeners will be available to answer gardening questions. Refreshments will be served. The open house and plant sale will be held at Sunset Circle, Holiday Island. Call 426-9563 for directions and information.
