Area Agency on Aging to hold program Nov. 5

From Staff Reports

The annual family caregiver education conference will be held Nov. 5 from 8:30 a.m. until 2:30 p.m. at the Kermit E. White Center in Elizabeth City.

The annual event is sponsored by the Hertford-based Albemarle Commission's Area Agency on Aging (AAA). It seeks to both honor and educate family, professional and volunteer caregivers in the community.

November is National Family Caregivers Month. The conference will include topics relevant to family caregivers as well as older adults and their families.

This year's keynote address: "Dementia: Types, Behaviors and Testing" will be presented by Dr. Henry Okhravi, MD. Dr. Okhravi is the Rosemary, Fenton, and Garnet Jordan Professor of Geriatrics at the Glennan Center for Geriatrics and Gerontology located at Eastern Virginia Medical School. Dr. Okhravi also serves as the medical director of the Memory Consultation Clinic for diagnosing and treating patients with different types of cognitive impairment. He serves as the medical director for Beth Shalom Village in Virginia Beach, the primary teaching site for geriatric medicine. Other key topics at this year's conference will include...

* Advance Care Planning- "The Conversation We're Not Having!"

* Medications- "Will another pill really help?"

* A panel of local family caregivers will share stories of triumph as well as trials, and the strategies and skills that have made their caregiver roles more rewarding.

Local businesses and agencies will be on hand as exhibitors. They will provide information on services and supports that may be available to the older adult and disabled population in Northeast North Carolina and their caregivers.

The conference is free to family and volunteer caregivers, older adults, and other community members. Lunch is included and will be provided by Southland Catering.

There is a fee of $20 for professionals seeking documentation for five contact hours. Participants must pre-register to attend. To register please call 426-5753 ext 226 or 232.

COA to host seniors on Nov. 18

From Staff Reports

College of The Albemarle (COA) will host the "GEAR UP Senior Day" on Nov. 18. Seniors from John A. Holmes and Perquimans High Schools will tour the Elizabeth City Campus and have an opportunity to consult with admissions staff and faculty members.

Students will receive information about admissions and financial aid, including how to apply to COA; what to expect during the application, admission and enrollment process; where to go to get their questions answered and options for paying for college classes.

Faculty and staff will talk to seniors about how to later transfer from COA to the university level, how to apply for career preparatory programs, and how to choose the best major/program and college.

In addition, students will learn what is expected of a college student, how college is different than high school and what COA offers to help students be successful.

During the COA campus tour, students will discover what the general college experience is like.

"We are very pleased to welcome the seniors from John A. Holmes High School and Perquimans High School to COA," said Suzanne Ott, COA's Director of Recruiting and Community Outreach.

"The GEAR UP Senior day allows students to explore and examine their own interests and find out how they can use those interest to form plans for their futures."

Registration will be held in the lobby of Building AE from 9 - 9:30 a.m.
