

PAGE 7

Nixon, Byrum,

Leary awarded

top scholarships

PCHS seniors

FROUIMANS COUNTY LIBRARY 514 S CHURCH ST 396

PAGE 6 Students see

consequences of

impaired driving

dangers,

Dina Hurdle demonstrates weaving for students in Rodney Lyons' fourth-grade class at Hertford Grammar School during Living History Day Friday at the Newbold-White House.

Students learn history hands-on at NBWH

4th-graders learn about weaving, candlemaking, quilting, other crafts

SCAN ME

Rodney Lyons, a fourth-grade math and social studies teacher at Hertford dents, was fascinated by the weaving Grammar School, said the kind of interactive lessons that make up the Gavin Jones, one of Lyons' studisplay.

"I think it's cool how they can make

Chamber denies allegations by former directors

Remaining board members say treasurer of the board and is Chamber building not for sale

PAGE 8

Food,

dancing, fire-

PCHS Prom

2022

works highlight

BY REGGIE PONDER Staff Writer

ber of Commerce has released a letter denying some statements made by board members who have resigned and insisting the Chamber is moving forward with new board members.

A majority of the directors on the Perquimans Chamber board resigned last week after a group members Melanie Metzler, of them raised questions about the business group's accounting practices and planned sale of its building in downtown Hertford.

im President Jill Cohen on resigning but did not formalbuilding is not for sale. Steven Young, who was among those who resigned, reportedly asked questions about the organization's accounting during the board's April 18 meeting.

But Young and the other The Perquimans Cham- board members who wanted answers about what was going on were completely shut down at the meeting, according to their account of the meeting which was shared with The Daily Advance and The Perquimans Weekly on Monday.

The following day, April 19, Young and fellow board Erin Brabble, Brittany Taylor and Lisa Varrasto resigned from the nine-member Chamber board.

Board member Reggie The letter sent by inter- White reportedly mentioned Tuesday states the Chamber ly quit the board, according

See CHAMBER, A2

Jackson free after 61-day jail term

REGGIE PONDER/THE PERQUIMANS WEEKLY

BY REGGIE PONDER Staff Writer

ers from Perquimans County learned about Colonial history hands-on at last week's Living History Day at the Newbold-White House.

Living History Day are wonderful for children.

"It's giving them an opportunity to More than a hundred fourth-grad- have an event where they can learn by doing, with the hands-on activities," said Lyons, who is in his 29th year teaching. "The kids really enjoy it. I just feel kids learn by doing."

that stuff by hand without using machines," he said.

more things were made by hand.

Gavin said he thinks he would have liked living in an earlier time when

JOHN FOLEY PHOTO

Nursery assists

a customer with

Albemarle Master

Gardeners Spring

Garden Show at

the Perquimans

Recreation Center

County

in Hertford.

Saturday.

plants at the

Marshall

Bateman of

Sunnyside

See HISTORY, A3

"I would have liked it more because

Candidate: Jailing 'humbling, shouldn't have happened'

BY REGGIE PONDER Staff Writer

Perquimans County commissioner candidate Quentin Jackson was released from Albemarle District Jail on Tuesday after serving 61 days for his conviction on campaigning for county charges of trespassing and violating probation.

"It's a humbling experience but one that shouldn't have happened," Jackson interview Friday.

Jackson said he will not say much about the case right now because he is continuing to appeal the conviction. "We'll let the appellate court deal with that," he said.

Jackson said he believes he has been targeted because his refusal to "go along to get along.

"I think all strong leaders go through that," Jackson said. Jackson said he is busy Because commissioner. there is no Democratic primary for the three open seats on the board, Jackson is not on the May 17 ballot. said of his time in jail in an He won't face Perquimans voters until November.

JACKSON

> "I'm ready to move forward with it," Jackson said. "I feel great about where (the campaign) is but we've got a lot of ground to cover in a short period of time."

Jackson said he had met

See JACKSON, A3

500 attend 10th annual Spring Garden Show

Vendors report good sales den plot maps in hand, hopday at Saturday event

> BY JOHN FOLEY Correspondent

They were lined up at the front door as though it were a "Black Friday" sale. Except instead of Apple Airpods, iRobot Roombas and 65-inch smart TVs, they had their sights set on lavender, lilacs and daylillies. And some came with gar-ing to find that oh-so-needed Hertfordshire rose bush.

That was the scene in Hertford Saturday at the Albemarle Master Gardeners Spring Garden Show at the Perquimans County Recreation Center sponsored by NC Cooperative Extension. Gardeners, some Masters, some not, began exiting, hands full, minutes after the doors opened,

See GARDEN, A3

Over 100 have cast ballots early

Early voting continues at elections board thru May 14

From staff reports

As of late Tuesday morning 133 voters had cast early ballots in the May 17 primary and school board election in Perquimans County.

Perquimans Board of Elections Director Kath- Board of Election office

Vol. 87, No. 18 WWW.PerquimansWeekly.com @2021 Perguimans Weekly All Rights Reserved

far has not been bad. "It's better than in the (November 2021) municipal election," Treiber said. "It's still early. If it hasn't picked up any by the end of next week I might be a little worried but I'm not worried at all. It's early."

Early voting for the primary election is taking place at the Perquimans ryn Treiber said turnout so at 601 South Edenton St.,

Hertford, on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 7:30 p.m. through Friday, May 13.

voting Early will also be held on Saturday, May 14, from 8 a.m. to 3 p.m.

Plank House returns home in pieces

It took 2 trips to Bethania to return lumber planks of house to county

> BY PENNY BYRD Special to The Perquimans Weekly

Editor's note: This story is the third in a four-part series on the history of the Pasquotank Plank House, its travels and final return to Perquimans County.

Part two of this story about the Pasquotank Plank House ended with the death of Ned Hipp of Bethania and his wife reaching out to Ben Hobbs and asking if he wanted the house back.

Mrs. Hipp had already sold the barn that the plank house was stored in but was holding off the buyer until she could empty it. Fortunately the barn buyer was an understanding man who gave Mrs. Hipp the time she and her family needed to remove the plank house.

It took a couple of months, but on Dec. 7, 2021 (Pearl Harbor Day), six local men began their journey to the Winston-Salem area with an attack plan of a different kind on their minds.

PHOTO COURTESY PCRA

This combination photo shows the planks of lumber from the Pasquotank Plank House when they were stored in Ned Hipp's barn in Bethania.

Three of them traveled in a Ford truck pulling an 18-foot enclosed trailer, one was already in the Raleigh area, and the other two (towing an 18-foot open trailer) arrived by way of a doctor's appointment in Norfolk, Virginia first. (The one with the appointment gets the award for dedication to the mission!)

As life would have it, there's always a mishap ... or two. The first Ford was to deliver two passengers who were to pick up a 26-foot box truck from U-Haul, but because of miscommunication they learned after they arrived in downtown Winston-Salem that the reserved vehicle was elsewhere. Life lesson: if you haven't learned it yet, good communication is the key to just about everything. But I digress.

When everyone converged on the Hipp house they were joined by Mrs. Hipp's son and a neighbor to assist in the "attack" on the huge pile of lumber inside the barn. The structure featured only a standard-size door for egress in the area where the lumber was stored.

Lyn Winslow told me that what impressed him the most was how dry

See HOUSE, A3