Art Exhibition at Branch Library

The first one-man art show by a black artist in High Point opens tomorrow at Washington Street Branch of the High Point Public Library.

Frederick N. Jones will exhibit 22 framed works in oil and acrylic, and including a series of pen and ink drawings, in a special exhibition entitled "Black Interpretations '73." The show will be on display at the branch library, 201 4th Street, until June 30.

Jones, a local commercial artist, studied commercial art at Guilford Technical Institute for two years and prior to that time studied fine arts at A & T University, Greensboro, for four years. He has been employed as an artist by Ad Impact, Inc., of High Point for two years.

A member of the High Point Fine Art Guild, Jones has exhibited paintings under guild auspices at Westchester Mall and at the High Point Arts Council's "Sunday in the Park." He is married to the former Lillie Madison of Brevard, chairman of the English department at T. Wingate Andrews High School.

Fred Jones will be on hand at the branch library on different evenings during the exhibition to talk about art and explain his work. The nights he will be present, all Thursdays, are June 14, June 21, and June 28. All interested persons may attend these informal sessions on art, which will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Cinema Cafe film

The Salmon (Sa-mon) River in Idaho, known for its wild beauty and miles of fast white water, will be explored in a family adventure film to be shown at Cinema Cafe Tuesday noon at the High Point Public Library.

"Wild River" recounts the exciting trip by rubber raft and kayak (ki-yak) down the Middle Fork of the Salmon River by the Craighead brothers, Frank and John, and their families.

The Craighead brothers, both of whom hold Ph.D.'s in ecology, were the main persons responsible for the Wild and Scenic Rivers Act, passed by Congress in 1968 to preserve stretches of still-wild, undeveloped rivers in their natural state of beauty. The Idaho river trip was filmed by the National Geographic Society.

The show will be held at 12:15 p.m. in the audio-visual room, where coffee is available to viewers who bring lunch.
