WHITES NOT HELPING

GREENSBORO, N.C. — Speakers to the National Black Alliance on Graduate-Level Education cited the historical role of black colleges, and called for more involvement by predominately-white graduate schools in educating blacks.

"Black colleges and universities with fewer resources than white institutions of higher education have developed effective techniques of teaching the educationally handicapped," said Dr. Arthur E. Teele, keynote speaker at last Friday night's banquet at the Hilton Inn.

Teele, dean of the Graduate School at Florida A&M University, said a recent study of 1,000 black with PH.D. degrees, revealed that 74 percent of these persons took their bachelor's degrees at predominately-black institutions.

He cited similar figures for blacks holding high level positions in the military and Congress.

"Contemporary black college students," said Teele, "are more inclined to view the university as a laboratory to teach them how to survive as agents of change."

In his address to the group, Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, chancellor of A&T State University, chided predominately white graduate schools because he said "no predominantly white institution is awarding a minimal acceptable percentage of its degrees to blacks."

"We have proclaimed equality of education as a national policy, but we have permitted segregation because of the accident of a person's birth, race and color."

Dowdy said a recent study he conducted, revealed that only about 4.2 percent of the enrollment in graduate schools is black. "In my study," he said, "no university had a black enrollment in the graduate school of 10 percent."

He said North Carolina's three medical schools in 1973 graduated a total of seven black doctors. "There are 120 black doctors in the state," said Dowdy, "and at that rate of graduation, it would take 18 years to replenish the supply of black doctors."

LEAK HONORED

Officer O. H. Leak was jointly honored last week by the High Point Chamber of Commerce and Human Relations Commission on the 30th anniversary of service he has rendered to the community through the police department.

The first black patrolman in the state of North Carolina, officer Leak was cited for "the epitome of outstanding human relations, and sharing his true brotherhood and good will toward men" over the 30-year period.

City officials including Mayor William Bencini, business and professional leaders were among program participants. In addition to the latest acknowledgement, officer Leak received the North Carolina Law Enforcement Officer of the Year award in 1965, the Carl Chavis Y.M.C.A. citation of the year in 1965, and the High Point Exchange Club Policeman of the Year Award in 1971.

Mrs. M. M. Griffin Visits Waikiki

Mrs. M. M. Griffin left on the United airline last month for Hawaii with a group. There were two hundred passengers on the plane.

The real Hawaii is a delightful composite of all the Islands. There are eight Islands: Nihau, Maui, Molokai, Kauai, Oahu, Lanai, Kahoolawe, and Hawaii. Kahoolawe is called the Isle of Death our guide told the group. Lanai is the "Pineapple Island" and you can smell the pineapple from a distance.

She toured Pearl Harbor, she went out on the Pearl Harbor Cruise and saw the Memorial which encloses a shrine with a marble wall inscribed with the names of the 1,103 men who died when the Arizona sank on December 7, 1941. The attack of Pearl Harbor resulted in the loss of life to 3,067 American Servicemen. There was a wonderful world of shopping, browsing, eating and relaxing for her in the International Market rice.

She saw the great singer Don Ho and his father in the Wax Museum. The most sacred place that they toured was the Punchbowl Crater which was the National Memorial Cemetery of the Pacific. There were eight trees growing one way as if they would fall over. The National Cemetery of the Pacific was established in 1948 and also the honored resting place for United States servicemen killed in action in Korea, whose remains could not be identified.

They observed Annual Memorial Day service. In preparation for Memorial Day ceremonies, each of the thousands of granite grave markers in the Hawaii was a trip that will live in your mind forever and with you always.

cemetery is decorated with colorful and beautiful floral leis contributed by the school children of Hawaii and placed at the gravesites by Boy Scouts of the Honolulu area. Also, all graves in the cemetery are decorated with small American flags during the 24-hour period preceding Memorial Day. These flags are removed immediately after Memorial Day. Flags are not permitted on graves at any other time.

They toured Iolani Palace which called "Bird of Heaven" and signifies to the Hawaiians the supreme being above all gods. It was a sacred name in old Hawaii and was given to both Kamehameha II and IV. Iolani Palace was built as a residence for the rulers when Hawaii was a Monarchy. It was made the seat of government when Hawaii became a republic. Until the spring of 1968 it was the executive building of the State of Hawaii. Mrs. Griffin added, the trip to

Conducts Revival

Dr. Jeffrey Drayton conducted a week long revival in Newberry, South Carolina August 19-24. The revival was held at Bethesda Baptist Church, pastor Rev. J. C. Copeland.

A bus load of New Bethel members were at the South Carolina Church to hear Dr. Drayton preach the opening service. The group was entertained highly by the host church. This exchange of being present at each other's church on the opening day of the revival between Betherda and New Bethel has proved to be quite inspirational. It has improved the relationship of the churches and has become an annual affair.

There were four candidates for baptism during the week.

Talent Laden

Personable Coach Is Dead

FAYETTEVILLE — Thomas L. Reeves, head basketball coach at Fayetteville State University since 1969, is dead at the age of 48.

Reeves, who guided the Fayetteville State University basketball team from the bottom of the CIAA conference to one of the all-time powers in just three seasons, died August 29, in Fayetteville.

The personable FSU head basketball mentor, best known throughout the sports world for his flashing smile and white-shiney boots when he appeared at basketball games, recently won the coveted 1973 CIAA Tourney Crown at Greensboro in February. He also finished third in the NCAA College Division Regionals at Salem, Virginia.

Reeves was to begin his fifth year at the helm of the Bronco cagers, having had his best year in 1973 when his squad won 21 games and lost 11.

A native of Tarboro, North Carolina and a graduate of Shaw University, he was an all-time athletic great at the institution having participated in football, basketball, baseball and track. A fine football guard, he was a member of Shaw's 1947 CIAA Champions.

Many sports observers felt that after last year's performance by the FSU cage team, Reeves was destined to become one of the all-time great collegiate coaches.

Twice Reeves was chosen "CIAA's Most Outstanding Tourney Coach". He garnered these honors in successive years, 1972 and 1973. In the 1973 CIAA Tourney Reeves guided his squad to its first Tourney Crown beating Norfolk State College in overtime, 94-89.

Under Reeves' tutelage the Bronco basketball squad entered their first post-season small college NCAA playoffs when they played Eckerd College, Old Dominion University, and Loyla of Baltimore. The Broncos fared well in the play-offs defeating Eckerd College, 95-66 losing to Old Dominion University, 80-74 and crushing Loyola of Baltimore, 81-66.

The Tarboro native was a member of the Marine Corps from 1950-53 and was selected to both the All-Marine and All-Navy teams. One of his teammates was the late, great Charles "Big Daddy" Lipscomb, who later went on to professional stardom with the Baltimore Colts and Pittsburgh Steelers. Reeves played against the Lost Angeles Rams for the Armed Services team during this period.

Reeves tutored some of FSU best athletes during his tenure at the institution, some of which have gone on to stardom.

Mike Sneed, former All-CIAA forward went to the Kansas City-Omaha Kings of the NBA in 1972 while All-CIAA forward Terrence Murchison, a 1973 star, was drafted by the Carolina Cougars of the ABA.

In the last two seasons at Fayetteville State University, Reeves posted a 42-43 record.

At Conetoe (N. C.) where he was head basketball coach prior to coming to FSU. Reeves won six district championships and made it to the state finals twice. Several of his players have gone on to college fame. Cliff Black, an All-Carolinas Conference selection at Atlantic Christian College for the past two years was one of his most famous high school products.

His Conetoe teams won 90 games and lost only nine during the five year stretch, 1965-69.

SHILOH BAPTIST CHURCH

The Shiloh Baptist Church celebrated its 81st Anniversary August 19, 1973. The church had its beginning in 1892.

Mrs. Millie Davidson served as Mistress of Ceremonies. The speaker for the occasion was Dr. David N. Licorish, retired Minister of Abyssinian Baptist Church in Harlem. He is currently a member of the General Board of National Council of Churches of Christ in the U.S.A.

Special Recognition was given to various members of the church. Mr. Frank Hicks, Sr. and Mrs. Christine Burton were honored as Mr. and Mrs. Shiloh — 1972. Mr. Thomas Amos and Miss Sandra Holleman were honored as Mr. and Miss Junior Shiloh — 1972. Mr. Willie Beasley and Miss Patricia Truesdale were honored as Mr. and Miss Young Adult Shiloh — 1972.

With God's blessing and self-determination, the Shiloh Baptist Church has experienced tremendous growth and prosperity during the past 81 years. The entire church family and the pastor are eternally grateful to God for all the blessings that he has bestowed upon Shiloh from its beginning to the present. The church family is also thankful for the Shepherd that God sent to guide and direct his Sheep.

"EVERYBODY IS SOMEBODY AT SHILOH!"

C.P. Completes Study

The Citizen Participation Agency did a study of the proposed sub leasing of the Fifth Floor of Reynolds Memorial Hospital.

Copies of the report were forwarded to each of the CDC members, Aldermen, County Commissioners, Hospital Authority, Chairman of the Health Planning Council, City Manager and Director of Model City.

The Board of Aldermen passed the proposal by a vote of four to three.

The Prioritizing Task Force Committee met August 13, 1973. They heard reports on several proposals and decided to take action at its September 10, 1973 meeting.

Attendance at the Task Force meeting, as well as at Council meetings, has been a problem and; therefore, has not provided the Council with necessary information and representation.

The Parent Advisory Council of the Child Guidance Clinic which seeks one representative from each Neighborhood Council will meet in the Child Guidance Clinic Conference Room, 1200 Glade Street (across the street from the YWCA) on September 27, 1973 at 7:30 p.m. The council needs to elect or appoint a regular representative and hopefully an alternate also.

The Community Development Commission will meet September 19, 1973, the third Wednesday, in the Council Chamber at City Hall. All residents are urged to attend these meetings. (7:30 instead of 7:00)

The agency has been planning a Clean-Up Campaign in Neighborhood Council in the area of Patterson Avenue to the bridge on Sixteenth Street and from Seventeenth Street to Northwest Boulevard.

A Crime Prevention and Fire Prevention Program has been planned in cooperation with the President for October 2, 1973 in the Community House at Cleveland Projects, East 15 Street. The program is designed to educate the residents on ways and means of reducing such incidents.

Application for employment are being received by "Campers Games," 715 North Cherry Street and Seventh Street. Hourly rates are $1.80. See Mr. Herb Redding. The company is involved in making Christmas toys.

Human Resources

Pat Patterson North Carolina has 3100 licensed foster care facilities of which approximately 2800 are foster family homes. As a part of its services, the Division of Facility Services of the State Department of Human Resources licenses these foster care facilities.

Before the Division can even consider licensing a foster family home, though, it must know whether the people applying as foster parents can love and care for children who are not their own—whether they can make the children part of their family and concern themselves with the children's total needs.

A foster home licensing study is prepared by the local county department of social services and is submitted to the Division of Social Services for review. After reviewing these studies the Division of Social Services makes a recommendation regarding issuance of a license by the Division of Facility Services.

According to Mrs. Sylvia Stikeleather, supervisor of foster care services for the Division of Social Services, "It's the people we're really licensing, but we must take into consideration such standards as fire and sanitation requirements before a foster family home can be licensed."

She stated that though a family might love children very much, if they could not provide them with certain basic
