SOUTH AFRICAN BAN OF CLERIC HIT

By HUMPHREY TYLER

In The Christian Science Monitor

CAPE TOWN — The South African Government has opened itself to a barrage of criticism by imposing a banning order on one of the country's most distinguished clerics, Dr. Nanas Buthelezi, the country's only black doctor of theology.

Dr. Buthelezi is the first cousin of well-known Gatsha Buthelezi, chief minister of South Africa's Zulu nation.

THE BANNING procedure, itself, which is being publicized around the world because of this affair, officially silences a citizen, cuts him off from normal social life, and frequently makes it impossible for him to earn a living in his profession.

The order imposed on Dr. Buthelezi is not as stringent as many others, but he is prohibited from attending social, political, or educational gatherings for five years, and from teaching students. No newspaper may publish what he says — or anything he has ever said in his life at all, even before he was banned.

ALL THESE restrictions were imposed out of the blue by the South African Minister of Justice, and there is no appeal.

Both of South Africa's two opposition parties have gone on record in Parliament as bitterly opposed to the whole banning system. The Buthelezi banning, may erode further support for the National Party, which has ruled South Africa for 25 years.

DR. BUTHELEZI is the 70th person to be banned and silenced this year. Many of the others have been students, both black and white.

Throughout all this, the government has remained silent and so have most of its newspapers.

Top Executives, Educator Head UNCF 1974 Drive

NEW YORK, N.Y.—Thomas A. Murphy of the General Motors Corp., A. Dean Swift of Sears, Roebuck and Co., and Dr. Buell G. Gallagher, former president of the City College of New York, were named today to top leadership positions in the United Negro College Fund's 1974 drive.

Mr. Murphy, Vice Chairman of the Board of GM, will be the UNCF National Campaign Chairman. He succeeds Cyrus R. Vance, who has been nominated to a seat on the Fund's board of directors.

MR. SWIFT, president of Sears, will take over as Chairman of the National Corporations Committee. Mr. Murphy held that post in 1973.

Dr. Gallagher, who was also president of one of the UNCF institutions, Talladega College in Alabama from 1933 to 1943, will serve as Chairman of the Foundations Fund-Raising Committee for the fourth straight year.

ANNOUNCEMENT of the appointments was made today by Morris B. Abram, UNCF Chairman of the Board, and Dr. Herman H. Long, President of the Fund. Mr. Abram, who practices law in New York, is the former president of Brandeis University. Dr. Long is the current president of Talladega College.

The UNCF raises operating revenues for its 41 private, predominantly black member colleges. Thirty-nine of them are four-year, fully accredited institutions. Atlanta U. and the Interdenominational Theological Center are graduate schools.

A GOAL FOR the 1974 campaign has not yet been set. In 1972, the UNCF raised $11.1 million, which included one-time legacies totalling $687,000. The 1973 drive is not yet complete. Since its founding in 1944, the UNCF has raised some $130 million to support its member colleges.

"Two-thirds of the students who attend these schools come from families earning $5,000 or less a year," Mr. Murphy said. "The need to support these colleges, to keep them in existence, and to help them flourish, so that these young blacks will not miss a college education, is imperative."

House Extends Funding

WASHINGTON — The House Banking and Currency Committee last Friday approved a six-month extension of funding for the Small Business Administration while Congress continues its probe of illegal SBA activities.

The committee added a tough amendment aimed at curtailing White House influence on SBA lending.

THE COMMITTEE approved 15-3 an amendment by Rep. James M. Hanley, D-N.Y., to subject any person exerting improper political pressure on the SBA to a fine of $10,000 and one year in jail. In addition, the Hanley amendment would nullify any SBA financial transaction where improper influence was proven.

Hanley said some "rather sordid information" has been made available at public hearing on the SBA indicating that improper White House influence contributed to a number of questionable loans in the past. He told the committee members the federal government "has lost millions and millions of dollars through the outside influence of the executive branch."

THE COMMITTEE voted 30-2 to raise the SBA's loan ceiling by $75 million through June 30, 1974, while the House Small Business Subcommittee continues its investigation of the SBA.

The legislation must be approved by both House and Senate before the Christmas recess of the SBA will run out of money for some programs.

FSU OFFERS NEW COURSE

FAYETTEVILLE - The Department of Continuing Education of Fayetteville State University, in cooperation with local government agencies contiguous to the City of Fayetteville and Cumberland County has scheduled a comprehensive course in "Local Government Administration" Dr. DeField Holmes, Vice Chancellor, Fort Bragg-Pope Air Force Base and Continuing Education announced today.

In making the announcement, Dr. Holmes stated that the first class will be held on Tuesday, January 15, 1974, and is open to persons employed in municipal and county government and other persons who qualify on the basis of background and interest.

The course in local government administration and management is designed for persons in middle and upper levels of local management or for persons entering local government service at these levels from areas such as the industry or military. The course will develop a comprehensive emphasis on emerging survey of the administration of local government activities with particular trends, problems, and techniques. Depending upon the interests or needs of the students in a given session, the course will focus on either municipal or county government.

The following topics will be included: "Introduction to local government in North Carolina and the United States", "Local Organization and Management", "Municipal Law",

"Financial Organization and Functions", "Urban Redevelopment Program and Process", "Planning",

"Local services", and "Practical Exercises."

Classes will normally be from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday evening. They will be conducted on the Main

Campus of Fayetteville State University or at other convenient locations in the Fayetteville-Cumberland community. Persons interested in the comprehensive course in Local Government Administration should address all inquiries to: Dean of Continuing Education, Fayetteville State University, Post Office Box 156, Fort Bragg, North Carolina 28307. (919) 483-6144 or 396-6737.

WINTER! COLD, WINDY, FROST BITING WINTER! To many Black Americans—especially those who live in substandard, dilapidated housing—the annual choice between numbing, spirit-sapping cold and the threat of fire due to improper heating equipment looms again.

Don't let the "Almighty Hawk, Mister Wind" catch you unprepared, says the Insurance Information Institute. Cold is probably the indirect cause of more fires—many of them fatal—than any other factor.

LAST YEAR FIRE destroyed more than $2.3 billion in property and killed 11,900 people—the greatest number of fatalities being persons 65 or older and infants five years of age and younger.

And there is little question that the threat of fire is especially acute for many minority residents who hang their hats in the countless tenements of the Harlem, Lough and Watts sections across the country.

Baseball Star Honored Nat'l Carver Award To Willie Stargell

PITTSBURGH — Wilver Dornal "Willie" Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates has been named by the 30th Annual George Washington Carver Day Committee to receive the National George Washington Carver Award.

Stargell is being recognized for his outstanding work in the Pittsburgh community as well as his national efforts to raise funds for sickle cell anemia prevention and cure.

THE AWARD WILL be presented at the annual luncheon at the Webster Hall Hotel, Friday, January 4, 1974. It will be given to him by his teammate, Dave Giusti, of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The event usually attracts one of the largest turnouts for an interracial and interdenominational luncheon in Pittsburgh. Proceeds are used to support Camp Achievement, an interracial camp for underprivileged children near Connellsville, Pa.

Kohler announced that community service awards also are being given to the Baptist Ministers Conference of Pittsburgh & Vicinity; Society of Brothers, Farmington, Pa.; Sister Adele of St. Francis Hospital; Clarence Frank of Penn Hills; Lois Weissflog of Gulf Oil Corp.; Rev. W.J. Moncrieff, Coraopolis Church of God in Christ; Gladys McNairy, of the Pittsburgh School Board, and Walter Brannon, director of Sewickley Community Center.

Winter Safety

Fire Prevention Urged By Insurance Information Center

WINTER! COLD, WINDY, FROST BITING WINTER! To many Black Americans—especially those who live in substandard, dilapidated housing—the annual choice between numbing, spirit-sapping cold and the threat of fire due to improper heating equipment looms again.

Don't let the "Almighty Hawk, Mister Wind" catch you unprepared, says the Insurance Information Institute. Cold is probably the indirect cause of more fires—many of them fatal—than any other factor.

LAST YEAR FIRE destroyed more than $2.3 billion in property and killed 11,900 people—the greatest number of fatalities being persons 65 or older and infants five years of age and younger.

And there is little question that the threat of fire is especially acute for many minority residents who hang their hats in the countless tenements of the Harlem, Lough and Watts sections across the country.

ABOUT ONE OUT of every six fires are caused by faulty heating or cooking equipment, the problem becoming particularly serious during the colder part of the year, the Institute points out.

To prevent fires, homeowners should check the entire house, including attic and closets, for unneeded piles of old newspapers and magazines, discarded clothing, broken furniture or other combustibles such as old paint cans and brushes. Throw them out! These are the kinds of things on which fires breed and feed.

Apartment dwellers should ask the superintendent to check the cellar (or do it yourself) for combustible refuse, such as unclaimed furniture or piles of papers. If you can't get action any other way, contact the Sanitation Department. Your safety is at stake.

Check all electrical appliances, outlets and wires and heating and cooking equipment to see that they are in good condition.

HOMEOWNERS should have their heating plants inspected by a qualified person at least once a year. A good idea would be a before and after winter heating system examination.

And if the colder weather drives you into the kitchen area with the stove on for heat, leave a window slightly open. An improperly burning stove—leaking gas into a closed area—can result in fire, explosion or cause death by suffocation, warns the Institute.
