NATIONAL The Central Intelligence Agency is said to have recovered at least two nuclear warheads from torpedoes retrieved from a sunken Soviet submarine. The warheads were believed to be contained in the one-third portion of the submarine allegedly retrieved. It is believed by intelligence sources, however, that more than the one-third portion of the submarine was retrieved. If these sources are correct, one can assume that the United States now has greater insight into Soviet technology.

The recovery of the submarine was made possible through a contact that the CIA had with billionaire Howard Hughes. Hughes' mining vessel used to retrieve the sunken submarine is called the Glomar

The week-end celebration at the homne of Mr. and Mrs. Jessup brought with it a vivid display of love, cooperation, understanding and thankfulness. Also the week-end provided an enjoyment that consisted of excellent food, friendship and "plain old good times" for all. In addition to the fun enjoyed by all, the family took time out to express appreciation and thankfulness for their Street, Greensboro, N.C., celebrated that was composed by their son, their Sixty-Fourth wedding anniversary Rooselvelt which included many truths and incidents was read by their daughter Bettie and dedicated to Mom and Pop and each family. This gave the Jessup family a time to really remense and relive a few precious moments of the past. Of great value are the family books containing individual and family information which were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Jessup and then distributed to each of their children, grandchildren, and great grandchildren.

The daughters-in-law and sons-in-law played a very important part in helping to make the Wedding Anniversary successful and enjoyable by preparing delicious food which was enjoyed by all.
