Chief Aviation Ordnance-man James M. Anderson - black, dedicated and totally committed - attributes his Navy recruiting success to total frankness. He feels that the presence of his Navy uniform has a great influence on the young people along Harlem's Seventh Avenue. The chief wishes the Navy enlistments program were as good as they were when he enlisted some twenty years ago.

But the veteran Navyman doesn't begrudge today's recruits the vocational advantages nor the larger paychecks.

"Today, you have to recruit the qualify person, the highly motivated applicant who will fit into the new Navy," he explains.

Chief Anderson has seen many changes in the time that he has been in the Navy. And, he vigorously states that the opportunities are there for anyone who is interested.

Recruiting in Harlem since the summer of 1973.

Chief Anderson has helped make NRD New York one of the most productive NRDs by enlisting more than 100 men and women. Several of his applicants qualified for the Advanced Electronics Program.

Chief Anderson states, "I would much rather be considered a counselor - one who helps shape an individual's future. After all, that's why I came back to Harlem."

It was officially announced today that Dr. W.C. Brown, Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs at Fayetteville State University, has resigned to accept the post of Director of the Institute for Higher Educational Opportunity with the Southern Regional Education Board in Atlanta, Georgia.

Commenting on his resignation, Dr. Brown stated... "I feel intellectually impotent as I search for words to unfold the vastness of my appreciation for the opportunity accorded me to be a part of the history of Fayetteville State University and to serve in the high post of Vice Chancellor for Academic Affairs." He went on to emphatically state that... "Contrary to what is often said or read from time to time, Fayetteville State University is fortunate to have some exceptionally to be found anywhere. I fine students and some of deem it an honor to have the finest faculty members

Southern Railway President, W. Graham Claytor, Jr., presents Karen Leslie Stevenson with a $1,000 National Achievement Scholarship Award. Southern made the award available through the National Achievement program. Miss Stevenson is also the recipient of the coveted Morehead Scholarship at the University of North Carolina where she will attend college in the Fall and enter a pre-med program.
