Expressions In Poetry

by WILLINE M. RUCKER
BE FOR REAL

Whatever you do,
Whatever you say,
Whatever you achieve;
Be for real.

No matter the time,
No matter the situation,
No matter the cost;
Be for real

Release the culprit within that destroys.
Release the anxieties that plague you daily.
Release the avarice that caters to man't carnality;
But...be for real.

Be determined to reach a level of self-gratification.
Be cognizant of yourself as well as others.
Be apt to accept the challenge that awaits you;
But by all means-be for real.

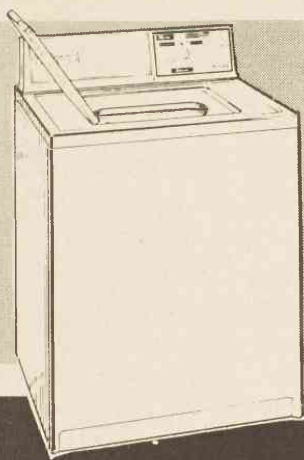

Real enough to accept self for what it is.
Real enough to accept people as they are.
Real enough to cope with life as it is;
And finally-being able to distinguish the Real thing from its imposter.

The staff of THE TRIBUNAL AID extends its congratulations and thanks to all our readers and supporters. Because of your undying, ever-growing support, THE TRIBUNAL AID found it necessary to move into larger quarters. Our new address is 1234 Montlieu Avenue in High Point, but our mailing address remains as before, P.O. Box 921, High Point, N.C., 27260. We invite you to come by and see what you have done.

Also, we wish to announce a new addition to our staff. Mr. Robert Melvin has joined THE TRIBUNAL AID as circulation manager. Mr. Melvin brings much experience in the area of circulation sales management by having worked with the Greensboro Daily News as circulation manager. A graduate of A&T State University, Robert worked closely with Mr. Joe Dudley of Dudley's Beauty Supply in Greensboro during that organization's fledging stages. Presently, he is involved with the operation and promotion of the Forest Lake Country Club in Greensboro.

Despite this expansion, we at THE TRIBUNAL AID need your support more now than ever before. We are working extensively, each week, to publish a top quality newspaper that will be representative of North Carolina's Black community, and one that you will be proud to say you subscribe to and read.

Make a note to send us news and pictures so that Blacks across North Carolina can read your story. Go to the businesses that don't advertist with us and find out why. Also, patronize the business that do advertist in THE TRIBUNAL AID. Help us grow and expand even more, for in doing so, you help yourself and the Black community as well.
