PRINCE HALL MASONIC CORNER
 by: C. M. Winchester 33 Degree Major S. High 33 Degree

Illustrious J. Sammons 33°, Post Office Box 28328, a proficient and popular physician of North Carolina is District Deputy Grand Master of the Second District of the Prince Hall grand Lodge of North Carolina. He is one of the most capable and exemplary leaders in the Jurisdiction. He is a Past Master of his lodge of Clinton and has given many years of service to the Masonic Order. He is a member of Cape Fear Consistory #263 of Clinton, North Carolina.

Ill. J.D. Sammons 33°
 District Deputy Grand Master
 Second District
 Prince Hall Grand Lodge
 North Carolina

As District Deputy Grand Master for this District Brother Sammons has left no stones unturned in the matter of organization and promotion of Masonry in his District. He has been able to set into motion a systematic and productive district-wide program where his wise and compassionate leadership has captured the hearts of Craft members.

The MASONIC JOURNAL, in describing Brother Sammons, says, "He is a man of sound judgment and deep understanding of human nature...dynamic, personable, gracious and sincere...with a knack for motivation, he has stirred the brothers to unprecedented enthusiasm."

"Dr. Sammons is a gracious and sincere man. He possesses a large measure of the 'milk of human kindness.' It is this laudable characteristic which, to a very great degree, has been a contributing factor to the success of his various undertakings, both masonic and otherwise."

"Deputy Sammons is a 'mason of the manner born': loyal, optimistic, trustworthy; and he is a hard worker and a builder. Quiet and unassuming, he can always be counted on to put the job over."

"He holds regular workshops with the craft of his district, instilling knowledge, skill and pride in the government of the masonic fraternity. His business acumen and unusual interest in human betterment extend well beyond his teaching in formal sessions of the order; it reaches to all individuals within the sphere of his influence."

"The obvious fact is that Deputy Sammons is a leader in deeds! He shows the way; then, by example, as well as precept, he proceeds to execute the designs of the trestleboard. Furthermore, his modus operandi is one of applying the sterling principles of freemasonry to day-by-day relationships and to practical situations. In other words -- the wise leader that he is -- he lifts masonry out of the antiquated patterns of the past and makes it relevant to our own day and generation."

GREENSBORO - When Thurmon Deloney II started making A's in college, they just happened.

Then it became a matter of pride, and finally, the last two semesters, "that's when the pressures came in."

The pressures Deloney endured have helped him to breeze through A&T Staet University in three years, with a perfect 4.00 point average, the first in the university's 85-year history.

Children Needing Homes

Could you love a cute little bundle of energy, a six year old girl who has a sunny disposition and independent spirit?

Pammy is waiting for a black family to love her, a family who can give her a permanent home through adoption. She is a friendly, outgoing little girl, but deep down inside she has a constant yearning to belong to someone.

There might be a number of families who would be interested in adopting a little girl like Pammy. However, Pammy is not alone. She has a brother. She and Ron need to stay together. The search is on for a black family who has the special capability to welcome two children into their home at the same time.

Typical of most eleven year olds, Ron loves peanut butter and TV cartoons. His dark brown eyes light up when the conversation turns to baseball, football, or fishing. He still vividly recalls the time a fish made off with his hook, bait and weight.

Ron and Pammy are in foster care in another area of the state, longing for the day when they can join an adoptive family, permanently.

In cooperation with County Departments of Social Services, Children's Home Society is seeking permanent homes for children like Ron and Pammy. The Society has no rigid eligibility criteria for persons applying to adopt a child who is waiting. Each application is individually considered in relation to the type of child the applicant is interested in. Persons who wish to apply or desire additional information may contact the nearest district office of Children's Home Society of North Carolina: ASHEVILLE, 331 College St. - Phone (704) 258-1661; CHAPEL HILL, P.O. Box 2634, Phone - (919) 929-4708; CHARLOTTE, 301 S. Brevard St., Phone (704) 372-7170; FAYETTEVILLE, 907 Hay St., Phone - (919) 483-8913; GREENSBORO, P.O. Box 6587, Phone - (919) 274-1538; GREENVILLE, P.O. Box 494, Phone - (919) 752-5847; WILMINGTON, 713 Princess St., Phone - (919) 763-9727.

Although Deloney view his accomplishment with a sense of personal pride, he is quick to point out the help he has received along the way.

"My parents wanted me to keep up the good record, he said, "and many of my teachers started expecting great things from me and pushing me."

Deloney entered A&T after graduating from Western Guilford High School, but before that, he had lived the life of a military youngster in such places as California, Maine, Colorado and Delaware.

His parents are Lt. Col. and Mrs. Thurmond Deloney and the father is professor of aerospace studies at A&T.

Young Deloney's major at A&T is electrical engineering, a most taxing enterprise by any standards.

Since 8th grade, he has had a compelling interest in mathematics, enough to cause him to take algebra, trigonometry, geometry, analytic geometry and probability statistics in high school.

When the high schools ran out of courses he wanted, he began looking to colleges.

Deloney view his own success in college partly in his personal planning.

"I studied as necessary," he said "and planned my day around my classes. For example, I know that certain courses required more effort than others."

"I would say to other colleges students, he added, "that they should live with a plan that works for them."

A leader in the Air Force ROTC program at A&T, Deloney hopes to earn a master's degree in quantum electronics at either UCLA or the University of Southern California. He would then like to enter the Air Force as an officer.

Because of Deloney's early graduating from A&T, he must complete his ROTC program in graduate school.

Expressions In Poetry

by WILLINE M. RUCKER
 Grass

Grass -- Some say it eases the pain, the frustration; eliminates the problem.

Grass -- Makes the mind limpid, the tongue a ready weapon.

Grass -- "what it is" Makes you feel important, No doubt about it you're definitely what's happening.

Grass -- Makes you feel you're in the "in" crowd and you know and go where the in crowd goes

Grass -- Hey man, you're cool You're "getting off" to the max

Grass - Smoke it till you're satisfied

Why not smoke yourself to death? But remember, getting high never eased the pain or solved a problem permanently. Getting high - it's just a "thing" a temporary delusion - an escape from reality.

This is "what it is" - You can't change yourself or your situation "stone" out of your mind.

Miss Cheryl E. Johnson, a graduating senior at Bennett College, wins $9,758 in journalism fellowships.

Continued from Page 1 could receive training and experience. The team consisted of DRS. WILLIAMS, GEORGE HALL, HOWARD CHISLETT, E.E. BARR, WILLIAM MORGAN AND WILLIAM FULLER. The patient survived and responded well. On August 30, 1893, Cornish walked out of the hospital and outlived Dr. Williams. Two years after the operation, Dr. Williams went to the Chicago stockyards just to see his former patient.

Writing for the MEDICAL RECORD in 1851, Dr. Williams wrote that after a diligent search of medical records, he learned that the operation on Cornish was not only the first successful operation on the human heart but was also the first operation on that particular region on the human heart.
