GASTONIA NEWS

Mrs. Louverna Moses, well known singer of spiritual songs who has a weekly radio program, is now leader of a local group of singers called "THE REVELATIONS." Recently, THE REVELATIONS did a recording, and now they have a record containing four selections, 1. Signs of the Judgment, 2. "He Touched Me," 3. "In My Home," and 4. "Let Jesus Fix It."

THE REVELATIONS are available for concert engagements in the local area, and there are indications that they will become widely known since they cut their first record.

The Sunday School

department of Friendship Baptist Church sponsored an "EGG HUNT" at Rankin Lake Easter Monday. Officers in charge of the Sunday School pupils were Mrs. Essie Garvin, Mrs. Jeanette Cunningham, Mrs. Ethel Walker, Miss Darlene Eaves, and the superintendent, Mr. J.C. Sharr. After some three hundred eggs were hidden, one of which was a golden egg worth $3.00 and three additional ones worth .50¢ each, a bus load of eager children descended upon the play-ground area and scattered here and yon scratching and clawing for brightly colored eggs. Within minutes shirt tails, paper bags, egg trays, pockets and hands were filled with eggs. Some kids found more than a dozen each, others eight, six, five, two; and a few found none. Yet it was all fun.

As for the prize eggs, it was little Wanda Lineberger who discovered the golden egg and was awarded a prize of $3.00 on the spot; and Gary McClure, Martin Smarr, and William Dreher who found the special eggs worth .50¢ each.

deprivation. "I enjoyed my role as the mother," said Jocelyn who hopes to play serious, respectable black female roles.

"I didn't get into it as much as I wanted to, mainly because it ran only three nights."

Considering herself a serious individual, Jocelyn admits that she has no desire to do comedy.

"I am most concerned with the serious aspect of life in our society; therefore, I want to depict this on the stage."

Betty wants Jocelyn to play comedy roles for the experience.

"Marigolds had some comedy implications, but I want Jocelyn in a pure comedy situation." She feels that Jocelyn needs to understand the flexibility of the theatre and demands it makes on the actor.

"Right now, Jocelyn is enjoying drama. But she must understand that it's not always good enough to be 'good enough,'" said Miss Jones.

She added that Jocelyn must be willing to take the small parts, the unwanted parts and do them well.

For Jocelyn Johnson, the first step has been obtained -- that will to do what she wants. She has received her first professional reviews which credited her with a good performance.

Joe Knox, drama critic for the Greensboro paper said in his review, "Marigolds has been staged several times in these parts, but I have never seen the role of Beatrice played so well. Miss Johnson accounted for a marvelous performance, captivating and compelling."

After two more years at Bennett, she anticipates graduate study in Creative Writing. "I'd like to pursue my writing career. I write everything, but I'm more interested in playwriting," she concludes.

Under the direction of Betty Jean Jones and with the support of such talented students as Jocelyn, Bennett's Little Theatre will receive the rejuvenation so long needed.
