Artifacts Of Blacks On Display At A&T

GREENSBORO-The African Heritage Center at A&T State University has announced an exhibit of early hand-made farm implements by early blacks in North Carolina.

The James Fred McCoy collection, similar to the collection at the famous Slave Mart in Charleston, S.C., is being shown daily in the center from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. "Many persons are not aware of the artistic and creative talents of many of the slaves and other early blacks in the South," said Mrs. Matte Reed, curator of the heritage center. "In this exhibit, we have some of the finest examples of that talent."

McCoy, who loaned the exhibit to A&T, is an

WSSU To Hold Examinations

WINSTON-SALEM--Winston-Salem State University will administer the CLEP General Examinations and subject Examinations on Thursday, October 28 at 8:00 a.m. in Room 210 Blair Hall. The registration deadline is Friday, October 1.

The College-Level Examination Program (CLEP) is a national program that offers students and prospective students the opportunity to obtain college credit by examination.

As a result of a policy change announced last semester, WSSU will now accept the CLEP

WORMS CAN KILL YOUR PET.

Large roundworms (Ascariids) can kill your cat or dog. And he can pick them up any time—even be born with them. What can be done about the "worry of worms"? Sergeant's Worm-Away* Capsules mix easily with pet food to rout roundworms. For other worm problems, get Sergeant's Sure Shot* Capsules, Puppy Capsules or Tapeworm Medicine.

General Examinations in addition to the CLEP Subject Examinations for up to two years of college credit. Previously, the University accepted only the Subject Examinations.

The decision was made in recognition of the fact that older students are returning to college in record numbers. Nationwide the number of college students between the ages of 25 and 29 has increased 72 percent since 1970. Those between 30 and 34 increased 108 percent in the same period. Many of these mature people have, through their occupational and leisure activities, acquired the knowledge or skills imparted in courses taught in the first two years of college. CLEP tests provide these individuals with an opportunity to validate their accomplishments and receive appropriate college credit.

While it is highly unlikely that any one indi-

SOUTHERN FOLKS

John Smith

John Smith is a railroad man. As a child he used to walk the tracks in front of his house in his hometown of West Monroe, La. After graduating from Grambling College in 1967, John taught school, then came back to his first love, the railroad. And went to work for Southern.

John's first assignment was Greenwood, South Carolina. Today, he works 115 miles of track as a track supervisor. John believes in working with the men and not just supervising. He calls this "railroad work." And says, "Railroading can be hard work, but it pays off in career advancement and good wages."

As part of Southern Folks John's future is bright because Southern's future is bright. Railroading is one of America's real growth industries.

Railroads now carry more freight each year than all the trucks, airplanes and barges combined. And by 1990 we expect a 100 percent increase in railroad traffic levels.

We think this means a profitable future for Southern Railway and Southern Folks.
