Parties, Wedding Receptions.
 The wedding reception may be held in the bride's home, in a club or in a ballroom of a hotel. The purpose of the reception is to congratulate the wedded pair. However, the bride is never "congratulated." Congratulate the groom, but wish the bride joy or happiness.
 The bride's parents are host and hostess. Usually they receive the guests near the door. The groom's parents are guests of honor and sometimes they stand with the bride's parents. The bride and groom stand together, she on the right. The maid of honor is next to the bride, then the other bridesmaids. Ushers and best man move among the guests, bringing them up to the bride and groom.
 When the bridal party stands in line, they may take these places: The bride is at the groom's right, next to her, the maid of honor, then the bridesmaids. The groom's mother is at the groom's left, then the groom's father, then the bride's mother. The bride's father seldom stands in line, but, as host, walks about entertaining his guests.
 Unless all the bridal party is to be seated together at one large table, the bride and groom stand in line, until all the guests have spoken their good wishes. They are the last to be served.
Wedding Breakfast or Tea.
 As the bride wishes, a simple or elaborate breakfast or tea may be served.
 The menu for an early morning breakfast is that of an early morning meal. The noon wedding breakfast is really a luncheon. There may be one table for the bridal party and smaller tables for the guests. When only members of the families and intimate friends are present, all sit at one large table.
 At an afternoon or evening reception, buffet refreshments may be served. The menu may be similar to that of the noon wedding breakfast, but all foods must be easily managed with a fork.
The "Bride's Cake."
 The chief ornament on the table is the "bride's cake". It is customary for the bride to cut the first piece and divide it with the groom. An attendant cuts and serves the rest.
 In addition, there is often another wedding cake, usually a fruit cake, which is cut in small pieces and placed in little boxes. These are for the guests to take home and may be placed at each plate, or near the door to be taken as the guests leave.

SEDALIA NEWS

Thirty-one farmers and farm women attended the first Poultry School in Sedalia by Mr. B. A. Hall, Guilford County Agent, assisted by Mr. Hilbert R. Sessions, Poultry specialist, at the poultry farm of Professor C. E. Dean.
 Mr. Albright, of Albright Hatchery, gave a very impressive talk on feeding and breeding of chickens. He stated that it takes good feed and good stock to do the job.
 Professor Dean told the group about the History of his success in raising poultry.
 Mrs. Rosa Winchester, Guilford County Home Demonstration Agent, gave a discussion on the importance of eggs in the farm family diet.
 Mrs. C. E. Dean gave a demonstration of grading eggs for the market, saying that graded clean eggs will bring a few cents more per dozen.

A. and T. Aggies Begin Practice

Greensboro.—The A. and T. Aggies' baseball squad went into its first week of outdoor practice last week, and practically all last year's team members returned for the initial practice.
 The team will be composed of the following lettermen: Arthur Gooden, short-stop; Jim Monterio, center field; Julius Monterio, catcher; Jim Burney, pitcher; Ralph Mason, second base; Lefty Evans, left field; Emanuel Douglass, third base, and Brennan King, pitcher.
 New members of the team are as follows: Estell Harper, first base; Archie Harris, first base and infield; Pep Davis, third base; Joe Evans, third base; William Ford, outfield and Sam Ford, pitcher.
 The Aggies, who are looking for games, will accept all comers. Due to the fact that the schedule of the Greensboro Red Sox has not been completed, the Aggies do not know when Memorial Stadium will be available; therefore, they are temporarily seeking games away from home.
 The Aggies plan to play a USO benefit game provided they can get suitable opposition. All teams interested in engaging the Aggies should write to Brennan King, manager, A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C.
 The locals won seven out of sixteen games last year. One of their victims was the Raleigh Grays, who defeated the Black Yankees. The Danville City Aces, who claim the championship of North Carolina and Virginia, also fell victims to the Aggie wrath.

JUNIOR GIRL RESERVES CHANGE NAME TO B. S. M.

The former Junior Girl Reserves, now known as the B. S. M. Club, wishes to announce its change of name. It has been named in recognition of the Girl Reserve triangle which represents three sides of Girl Reserve's life—Body, Mind and Spirit.
 The girls in mapping out a spring program offered many excellent suggestions, two of which the group decided to develop. One of which is to send the soldiers at Fort Bragg, N. C., a subscription for a needed magazine. Personal donations will finance the magazine subscription.
 The other idea develops itself into a "Junk Salvage." The money will be used to send a girl to the Girls Reserve Conference to be held at Bennett College in June.
 As a monthly Club project the girls plan a question box on social problems in everyday life, in home, school, and elsewhere.

STEWED PEARS.

6 pears.
 2 cups boiling water.
 8 tablespoons sugar.
 2 tablespoons lemon juice.
 Pare and core fruit and place in cold water to prevent discoloration till ready to use. Make syrup, add fruit, cored side down. Roll gently until soft but not broken. Add lemon juice just before done. Cook small quantity at a time.

"You mean to say I'm actually the bandleader now?" asked the lad.
 "That's right," assured a Kye.
 "Then before I begin, I'd like to hire my brother for the sax section—he's been out of work for a few months!"

O. Martin, Dorothy Maynard, Goldie Moore, Edythe Payne, Bette Simmons, Freshmen.

Sedalia High School News

The Senior Class under the direction of Mrs. Vina Wadlington Webb, advisor, gave a very successful box party, Monday evening, March 23.
 The boxes were sold at auction. The highest box that was sold on auction belonged to Miss Sallie Miles, president of the class.
 Mr. Lenier, the Science teacher, was the auctioneer. He said that fine sportsmanship was shown by the high school boys and young men of Sedalia. These boxes were furnished by the senior parents.

Washington Speaker Heard At A. and T.

Thomas N. Roberts, special assistant to the director of personnel of the department of agriculture, Washington, was the principal speaker for the A. and T. April open forum held in Harrison auditorium yesterday.
 Roberts spoke on the importance of preparing for and securing civil service jobs. He said that the college faculty should become acquainted with the activities of the civil service commission so that they could better guide the students in the preparation for the job. The speaker also suggested that the college organize civil service clubs which would have as their immediate objective the preparation of students to take advantage of civil service opportunities. Prof. A. Russell Brooks, presided over the forum. Dr. J. M. Smith offered prayer, and Christine Brown sang a solo.

Sam: "There's one advantage to having a wooden leg."
 Jack: "What's that?"
 Sam: "You can hold up your socks with thumb tacks."

Nursing Course Opened For Negro Women Here

Local Red Cross chapter is starting a home nursing course for Negro women tomorrow at 8 p. m. at Zion Methodist church, East Washington street. Nurse Louise Hooker Benton, authorized Red Cross home nursing instructor, will be in charge. This is the first class started for Negro women this year, and while registration has not been large, it is expected that a full class will report tomorrow night. Miss Ruth M. Clinard, executive secretary of the Red Cross, said today.
 Other classes will be started in the daytime or at night if there is a sufficient demand for them. Those interested in a class can register at the chapter house. Those who want to enroll in tomorrow night's class may do so by reporting for the opening session.

Order Includes All Contractors

RALEIGH, April 15.—Contractors and builders in the numerous priority allocation areas in North Carolina, (defense areas) were advised today by Turner W. Battle, priorities analyst, that construction in such areas also came under the recent construction order:
 "That does not mean that there will be no construction allowed in these areas," explained Battle, "but it means that construction may proceed only when a builder is granted a P-55 rating."
 Complete copies of the order which is seven pages long and sets forth exemptions to the prohibitions, are at the Raleigh office of the priorities bureau, Battle announced, and may be inspected by construction men.
