Bennett Gets $175,000 Toward Endowment

The announcement by President David D. Jones that $175,000 toward the $500,000 endowment campaign had been raised and the adoption of the $205,000 budget for next year highlighted the annual meeting of the trustees of Bennett college on the campus last week.

Sources of the endowment fund include $50,000 from Mrs. Henry Pfeiffer, philanthropist, whose donations to the college in the past decade now are more than $700,000. Other donations are: General education board, $69,000; Woman's Home Missionary society, $25,000; graduates, friends, faculty and trustees, $31,000.

The president's annual report to the trustees took a new angle this year with President Jones relying on reports from students and faculty members to tell the story of activities on the campus during the past year. Faculty reports covered the work of the various divisions and the community-related work of the college while the students outlined the extra-curricular program of the college.

Student speakers included Misses Laura Allson, Kathryn Davenport, Betty Wade, Mary Randolph, Myrtle Brown, Thora Kelly, Margaret Hill, Carol Carter, Ruth Harvey and Roberta Favors.

Other features of the two-day meeting of the board included the presentation of the picture of the late Miss Carrie Barge for whom Carrie Barge residence hall was named. The presentation was made by Mrs. W. H. C. Goode, of Sidney, O., trustee of the college on behalf of the Woman's Missionary society. Miss Helen McLure, senior from Camden, S. C., accepted the picture.

The trustees and visitors were guests at a review of student activities which included reproduction of a daily radio program, dances by the modern dance group, music by the college orchestra and choir, and an exhibit of world-wide costumes modeled by members of the Little Theater guild.

The costumes are the gift of Mrs. Garfield D. Merner, San Mateo, Calif., member of the trustee board, who collected them during her world travels.

Trustees attending the meeting were Dr. W. C. Jackson, Greensboro, dean of administration, Woman's college, chairman of the board; Dr. Silas A. Peeler, Greensboro; Mrs. Julius W. Cone, Greensboro; Dr. Thomas F. Holgate, Evanston, Ill., dean emeritus of Northwestern uni-

A & T College Will Conduct 2 Six Weeks Summer Courses

According to announcement made by Dean Warmoth T. Gibbs, director of the A. and T. college summer school, the college will conduct two six-weeks sessions of summer school this year, the opening date for the first being set for June 7. Emphasis will be placed upon courses designed to reequip persons who have withdrawn from the teaching profession to re-enter the service with certification as well as to allow students working toward a degree to complete graduation requirements.

The accelerated program, inaugurated last year to enable high school graduates to gain credit for their first quarter of college instruction by enrolling in summer school and to complete their regular schedule in three years instead of four, will again be in effect. Intensive courses in typing and stenography to qualify students for civil service positions, courses for raising or renewing teachers certificates, war courses in machine shop, welding, agriculture and industry, and courses leading to the master of science degree will be included in the offerings, Dean Gibbs stated.

Dr. Mordecai W. Johnson, president of Howard university, and Attorney Harry J. Capehart, of Welch, W. Va., will be the principal speakers at the A. and T. college 45th commencement exercises late this month, President F. D. Bluford has announced.

Dr. Johnson will preach the baccalaureate sermon the morning of May 23, and Lawyer Capehart will deliver the literary address at the closing exercises Monday evening when approximately 75 persons are expected to receive degrees.

The Food We Eat

By Rosa T. Winchester.

We must share the meat with our fighters, our allies, and our neighbors—yet keeping the good nutrition and good flavor of meat on the table is mainly a matter of learning new kinds, new cuts and new receipts.

There are more different cuts of meat than you realize, perhaps—actually more than 200, including various types of sausage. (Yet the average woman knows only 12.) Your meat man has some of them most of the time. All of them are equally nutritious. Try them and see how tasty they are.

Try this one:

Liver Patties.

1½ pounds of liver
4 tablespoons butter or butter substitute

2 cups cracker crumbs
2 tablespoons grated onion
1-4 teaspoon pepper
1 teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
Bacon.

Parboil or broil liver and put through food chopper. Mix thoroughly with other ingredients and shape into patties about one inch thick. Wrap with strips of bacon and fasten with a tooth pick. Broil until brown. Serves six.
