A. & T. Expecting Big Registration Despite the War

From all indications, when A. and T. College opens in the fall of the year, there will be a large number of students on hand for registration despite the war and the fact that has taken many of the men from A. and T. According to Acting Dean, A. Russell Brooks, a regular number of applications have already come in from both young ladies and young men.

On September 12, there will be a pre-session faculty conference which will last for two days. During these meetings the members of the faculty will discuss papers written around common themes — The Impacts of the Times in Education.

Freshman orientation will begin on September 14, and upper classmen will begin registration on September 16. All classes will start Monday, September 20.

This fall offers increased opportunities for regular students to receive training essential for War Industries, and increased emphasis is being placed upon the acceleration of the college work.

There are probably as many good lies in the clubhouses as on the golf course.

the Chinese blood bank contains a quotation from Confucius: "Within the four seas all men are brothers."

The appeal then states: "2,000 years later, science proved that he was right. The life-giving element of human blood — the plasma — is identical in all races."

City Council Recommends Employment of Negro Police

OLD-TIMER — Staff Sgt. Clifford R. Wherley of Elmwood, Ill., top gunner of a Martin Marauder based in North Africa, flew on 21 operational missions in North Africa before Army discovered he was only 16. And it was his mom who told on him. Seasoned veteran will now be given honorable discharge and be returned to home of his parents.

Outstanding among the recommendations of the special councilmanic committee engaged for the past few weeks on an inquiry into, and about the Greensboro police department, submitted this week to a meeting of the council, was one favoring selection of Negro police if they can be obtained, for regular patrol duty in the Negro sections of the city.

Members of the committee, Mayor Pro Tem Fielding L. Fry, and Councilmen E. F. Craven and Harry Stanley, found that much needed police protection in the section involved had not been given, and the new city manager, Henry Yancey, and Chief of Police L. L. Jarvis are to peer into the situation fully and make a report back to the council at the earliest possible moment.

Recommendations of the investigating committee favored a shake-up amounting to a virtual doing away with the much discussed and very expensive, Wilson set-up, designation given the working plan inaugurated at the suggestion of a police expert brought on from points west, including Los Angeles, Calif., some months ago. In fact, the committee's ideas included the re-arrangement of police offices at the City Hall, one item the Wilson plan included to send the total cost of the change from the old system soaring to a sum totalling several thousand dollars.

One-man patrol cars, no plain clothes service in the evenings, and strict adherence to duty on a certain tour of duty were among Wilson eliminations asked by the report. Likewise was the selection of a plain clothes captain to succeed H. W. Brannock, demoted to a lieutenant several months ago, favored. Further, some plan whereby loyalty and experience might be regarded in the matter of promotions rather than the existing "hurdle" or "leapfrog" system was recommended.

Personnel of the department was praised.
