Recently appointed member of the Advisory Committee of the Division of Nurse Education, U. S. Public Health Service, which administers the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps.

Dr. Thomas Parran, Surgeon General, U. S. Public Health Service, Federal Security Agency, has announced the appointment of Mrs. Estelle Massey Riddle, well known Negro nurse educator, to the Advisory Committee of the Division of Nurse Education. The appointment was made by Paul V. McNutt, Federal Security Administrator.

The Division of Nurse Education of the Public Health Service administers the U. S. Cadet Nurse Corps, created under the Bolton Act, and Federal aid in advanced nursing programs. Special provision of the Act provides for the appointment of an advisory committee representing the nursing profession, hospitals and accredited nurse education institutions. The purpose of the committee is to assist the Surgeon General in determining rules, regulations, and standards.

Mrs. Riddle is associated with the National Nursing Council for War Service as consultant and resource executive in relation to Negro nursing and the war effort.

A graduate of Teachers College, Columbia University, with the degree of Master of Arts in Nursing Education, she began her career as an educator in Texas and later was associated with the Jullous Rosenwald Foundation. She served as instructor of nurses in the Central School for Nurses, Kansas City, Mo.; Harlem and Lincoln Schools, New York; and Freedman's Hospital, Washington, D. C. Before a crowd that comfortably filled the concrete stands or bleachers of World War Memorial stadium Thanksgiving afternoon, the Aggies of A. and T. college overwhelmed their rivals from Smith university, Charlotte, in their annual gridiron clash, 47 to 15.

The between 6,000 and 7,000 sports lovers were given a host of thrills, many of them coming as a result of the eel-hipped Charles Weaver, A. and T. half-back, who ran over three touchdowns after a bad start which saw him tackled back of his goal line for an alien two points.

Bryant also starred notably when he intercepted a forward pass and streaked a mere 102 yards for the initial touchdown which gave the Aggies a 7 to 2 lead. This was one of the longest runs of the entire football season and will undoubtedly go into the national records for the eventful football season of 1943.

Football followers here and hereabouts who follow gridiron happenings declared after the game that Bryant's canter was the longest they had heard of this season. The pass he grabbed was taken in his own territory and averted a Smith touchdown.

At intermission A. and T. held a 20 to 2 margin and was never again in doubt. Wright and Woods also scored touchdowns for the winners while Herbert Doub kicked five of the extra points out of seven attempts.

Brown scored both Smith's touchdowns; Ivory added one point.
