93 Hospitals Have Affiliated Units

The U. S. Office of Civilian Defense today announced that 93 hospitals and medical schools scattered throughout the country have complete formation of "affiliated units" of civilian physicians which will be available to either OCD or the Army in the event of need for setting up emergency hospital facilities in their respective areas.

Each unit is composed of 15 physicians, surgeons and other specialists, and forms a balanced professional staff. OCD will use the units to supplement the staffs of "emergency base hospitals" located in relatively safe zones on the fringe of critical areas in case it is necessary to transfer civilian patients to these hospitals because of emergency in such areas.

The units will be called upon by the War Department to staff extemporized hospitals should there be a sudden influx of battle front casualties, or some other extraordinary military necessity, requiring hospitals and physicians beyond the immediate capacity of the Army in any particular locality.

The OCD-affiliated units will be used for military emergency purposes only in or near the communities in which the staff resides. Their duty will be temporary and they will be replaced by Army doctors as quickly as the surgeon general of the Army can make the necessary assignments.

Normally, all the 15 doctors of a unit are associated with a single hospital. Each unit includes: a chief and assistant chief of medical services, two general internists, a chief and assistant chief of surgical services, four general surgeons two orthopedic surgeons, one dental surgeon, one pathologist, and one radiologist.

Physicians accepted for service in the units received inactive reserve commissions in the U. S. Public Health Service, but will be called to active duty by the surgeon general (USPHS) only at the request of OCD. When a unit is needed, either to staff an emergency base hospital or to assist the Army temporarily in a military emergency, the physicians of the unit will be placed on active duty for the duration of that particular emergency.

Organization of these units in selected communities will give both OCD and the Army organized emergency hospital staffs which can be called upon in time of need.

All that is necessary to get grade A price for one's eggs is to clean any dirty or stained ones, and do some easy candling to remove the eggs with blood spots, says T. T. Brown, poultry specialist.

Food specialists advocate preparing potatoes many ways for variety, but to get the most vitamin C and thiamine from a white potato, boil it in its own, well-scrubbed jacket.

YES . . . THE ARMY!

Twenty-three of the corps of technical instructors on duty at the Army Air Forces Technical Training School, Army Air Base, Lincoln, Nebraska, are Negroes. Located on Nebraska's rolling prairie land, the school began functioning in June, 1942. The course consists of 13 phases, each phase given over to the study of some particular branch under expert supervision. Pictured above is Mr. Major Alfred Reeves, instructor of aircraft mechanics, who is giving pointers to students in the engine assembly class. Reeves was formerly principal of a school at Oswego, Kansas.

Bennett college is a standard four-year college devoted exclusively to the higher education of Negro Women. It has the high rating of the Southern Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools and is a member of the Association of American Colleges.

The college received its name in honor of Lyman Bennett, of Troy, N. Y., its first benefactor. It operated as a small co-educational unit until 1926 when it was reorganized by the Methodist church through joint action of the board of education and the Woman's Home Missionary Society.

Dr. David D. Jones, a native of Greensboro and a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Wesleyan university, was appointed to the presidency and has guided the destiny of the institution since that date.

Since 1926 the college has grown to a place of leadership and respect in educational circles of America. Today its student body represents 30 states and the District of Columbia.

During the past seven years the college has received nearly a million and one-half dollars for capital expansion.

Currently the college is working toward a goal of $300,000 to supplement a sum of $200,000 from the General Education Board of New York city.

At its regular bi-monthly meeting last Monday afternoon the Council of Social Agencies met at Hayes-Taylor YMCA at one o'clock to discuss recent rising trends toward delinquency in the city of Greensboro. Mrs. Beatrice Harrison presided at the session in the absence of the president, Wilbur K. Wright.

The body listed among rising trends the employment of young people under fourteen years of age without proper work permits, the employment of young people in beer gardens and cafes serving alcoholic beverages, slackening in school attendance, the sudden influx in Greensboro of soldiers, and the need for more recreational activities in the public schools.

The council plans future meetings in which persons in authority and others would be invited to discuss these and other pertinent problems now in our community.

DR. KARL DOWNS VESPERS SPEAKER AT BENNETT COLLEGE

A philosophy of everyday living is far more important than the external means which one may possess, declared Dr. Karl Downs, president of Samuel Huston college, Austin, Texas, speaking yesterday at Bennett college vespers.

The youthful administrator illustrated his declaration saying that the military men know the value of the philosophy which a soldier carries into battle and prepares him for a philosophy. He asserted that college students also need a philosophy and a towering faith in humanity.

He admonished his audience to get something to cling as we go out into the darkness of the world where "the lights are going out one by one."

He asked for an impregnable love of society.

The speaker was introduced by Dr. Ivan E. Taylor, dean of instruction, who presided.

The college choir sang, "Holy, Holy, Holy," by Tschalkowsky and "Go Down Moses," by Burleigh under the direction of Orrin Clayton Suthern, II.
