

FUTURE OUTLOOK

VOLUME III, NO. 17

GREENSBORO, N. C., SATURDAY, MARCH 4, 1944

PRICE: 5c

"MISS MACO" OF '44 IS CROWNED

Seated: "Miss Maco," of '44, Mrs. Christine McAdoo. Kneeling, left, Mrs. Mattie White, first runner up and Miss Carrie McCain, right, second runner-up.
 First row, left to right: Miss V. Rhodes, Miss C. Smith, Miss E. Brooks, Miss R. Stilly, Miss M. Samuels, Miss G. Hanner, Miss C. McAllister, Miss B. Hawkins, Miss H. Villines and Miss S. Stevenson.
 Second row: Miss M. Wiggins, Miss H. Quick, Miss B. Kilgore, Miss B. Golston, Miss F. McNeil, Miss E. M. Johnson, Miss M. E. Johnson and Miss M. Reeves.

The annual "Miss Maco" contest between the Junior and Senior students of the Maco Beauty College, came to a close Friday night, February 25, with the usual dance and crowning ceremonies at the Windsor Community Center.

The president, Mr. E. D. London, has announced that the contest has been very successful and the profits exceeded that of the past year. The student body cooperated wonderfully to make the affair successful.

Mrs. Christine McAdoo, Greensboro, reporting the highest amount of votes sold, was presented the "Miss Maco" crown and pennant by Miss Lucille Jackson, "Miss Maco" of '43. The runner-ups of the contestants were: Mrs. Mattie White, Gastonia, and Miss Carrie M. McCain, Greensboro.

The winners and proceeds were announced by Mrs. E. D. London, vice president of the college. The president presented young ladies that formerly held the crown as: Mrs. P. Barnes Coleman, Danville; Miss Maco of '40, and Miss Lucille Jackson, High Point, Miss Maco of '42 and the successor to the Maco crown and pennant for '44, Mrs. Christine McAdoo, Greensboro.

Mrs. McAdoo is now a senior and is preparing to take state examination in April for Cosmetologist license. She is lovely to look at and has a beautiful personality, and all the traits to make her a very successful Cosmetologist.

Dr. H. C. Eccles and J. E. Rowell announces Don Redman as the next big attraction Thursday, March 9, at the armory.

Miss Davenport Vesper Speaker At Bennett College

Speaking before the student body and community friends at the regular Bennett College vesper service Sunday afternoon, Miss Kathryn Davenport, president of the student senate stated, "The fact that we are women by origin and the weaker sex by nature is not strong enough to fortify us from current events."

A few of the prime requirements in the art of living in war time are, she alleged, "The art of facing the situation realistically, the art of facing oneself squarely, and the clever art of learning to do without, and doing so graciously so that the "thankless art" of doing one's bit will be wrought into our personality."

In concluding, she touched upon the post war area, making this statement: "Each war in the history of our country has brought with it many changes in social, economic, and optical standards. If we are to remain normal, rational, healthy beings throughout the duration of an abnormal, Irration period we must acquire the art of living in war time now. The time is upon us to act for change is everywhere. We must arouse all of those undeveloped resources of heart, brain and hand; awaken sleeping reserve and become sensitive to the situation at hand. Reaction counts!"

Miss Margaret Hill of High Point, president of the senior class introduced Miss Davenport, who is a native of Philadelphia. Invocation was given by Miss Dorothy Forte. The scripture and evening prayer were delivered by Miss Shirley Franklin. The senior choir, under the direction of Or-

KATHRYN DAVENPORT

Inaugurating Senior Week at Bennett College, Miss Kathryn Davenport, above, spoke recently in Ann McMerer Pfeiffer Chapel. A native of Morristown, Pa., she is president of the Student Senate and active in student affairs.

Mayor Will Seek Funds For Negro USO Building

An effort to determine definitely what action is to be taken by the government with respect to the projected construction of a Negro USO building in Greensboro on the Macon street site chosen some time ago will be made in Washington tomorrow by Mayor W. H. Sullivan and City Manager H. A. Yancey.

The two officials will leave for Washington tonight and will be accompanied by W. M. York, a member of the community planning council.

A recent announcement indicated that the Negro USO construction project had been indefinitely deferred. The mayor and manager, however, wish to obtain more detailed information about plans and exact status of the program.

They plan to leave Washington Friday night to return to Greensboro.

Mr. Earl McGibboney of Blibro street has been ill for several weeks.

officially ushered in the traditional "Senior Week" at the college Monday morning, Miss Hilda Amaker, of High Point, addressed the student body in the formal chapel service at 10 a.m. on the subject, "Making Decisions."

Negro Vocational Teachers Co-Operating In Food Program

By C. A. IRVIN

"Each of the eighty-nine Negro vocational agriculture teachers in North Carolina in 1943 cooperated loyally with the Food Production War Training Programs, the purpose of which is to train farmers how to increase the production and conservation of essential food and feed crop," said W. T. Johnson today, Assistant Production War Training Program, with headquarters at A. and T. College, Greensboro, N. C.

As a result of the program, the records, as summarized and turned over by the supervisor to A. L. Teachey, State Director of Food Production War Training, showed that the teachers supervised the instruction of 338 classes, with an enrollment of 4,202 farmers. The report revealed the increase in last year's production is as follows: 81,507 lbs. of milk; 703,336 lbs. of poultry; 137,204 dozens of eggs; 675,556 lbs. of pork; and 655,695 lbs. of vegetables.

The record also indicated that 2,259 persons enrolled in 157 classes conserved and processed the following amount of food: Canned 322,203 quarts of vegetables, meats and fruits; dried 76,546 lbs. vegetables and fruit.

To create more interest in the program, several of the teachers gave exhibitions and public programs. The Anne Chestnut school in Cumberland county, near Fayetteville, made a creditable showing phase of the program.

Dr. F. D. Bluford, president, A. and T. College was the main speaker. In the address, special emphasis was put on the importance of producing and conserving food, and Dr. Bluford urged the farm men women to cooperate with all programs that will aid in the war effort.

The Caswell County Training School presented one of the best farm machinery repair exhibitions.

The County Superintendent, S. B. Simmons, supervisor of vocational agriculture in Negro schools of North Carolina and J. K. Cofgins, assistant professor of agriculture education, State College, Raleigh, took part in the program. The Wilkes County Training School is recognized as putting over the most practical canning program.

Mr. Johnson's records also reveal that $30,793.05 was saved by the farmers during 1943 as the result of repairing and constructing farm equipment. These estimates are based upon finding of the special teachers who taught the classes.

Dr. and Mrs. Paul C. Banks, of Reidsville, spent Wednesday in the city visiting his mother, M. Carter, of 1014 E. Market st.