IF THOMAS E. DEWEY HAD BEEN PRESIDENT

The record of Gov. Thomas E. Dewey shows his blindness to war dangers. In his acceptance speech, Governor Dewey denounced Pres-tion which will keep . . . completely out of European affairs."

Destroyers for Britain? Even after France had fallen, and two days before Winston Churchill's famous "blood, sweat and tears" speech, Dewey opposed any further aid to Britain because it "might lead to involvement."

Lend-Lease? As late as January 15, 1941, after Britain had barely survived the blitz, Dewey said that lend-lease would "bring an end to free government in the United States" and added that it would permit the President to "give away the whole Navy."

Preparedness? If the Republican Party had been in control, the bill to build an army through the Selective Service Act would have been beaten. The Republicans in the House voted more than two to one against it. The count was 112 against, 52 for.

50,000 Planes!
Our Air Force? When the President, in 1940, called for an air force of 50,000 planes and an annual production of 50,000 planes, Dewey said in a speech at Dallas, Texas, May 27, 1940:

"What is the good of talking about 50,000 planes unless we know what we are talking about? To produce 50,000 planes a year it will take a

But anybody can be a second-guesser.

The Presidency demands a man who can be right the first time.

Yet today Dewey by implication denounces the vision and courage of Franklin Roosevelt, who recognized the danger and had to fight Dewey's own party in order to prepare the country.

That "tired old man" was wide awake--when Thomas E. Dewey was fast asleep. -- Philadelphia Record.

WHAT EDITORS ARE SAYING

Dewey and Warren

The reason Gov. Earl Warren of California refused to run for vice president on the Republican ticket, after keynoting the convention, has finally leaked out. "I don't mind being a pallbearer or preaching the funeral sermon," he told GOP bosses for Dewey who were importuning him, "but I positively refuse to double the corpse and pose as such in a coffin." So they had to find a man too dumb to know better and willing to make the sacrifice because of the dumbness. — South Bend Mirror.
