Observe Better Parenthood Week October 23-29

The Greensboro churches, the Child Care committee, and the public schools announce the observance of the seventh annual Better Parenthood Week in cooperation with the National Better Parenthood Week committee. They have planned a local program for October 23 through the 29th.

The 1944 aims of the week are (1) to emphasize the rights of children to adequate preparation for their huge future task of rebuilding a broken world, (2) to re-awaken parents to the importance of guarding the health and morals of their families in the face of difficult wartime and postwar conditions, (3) to encourage the establishments of day care centers for the young children of working mothers and after-school supervision of their school-age children, (4) to help counteract juvenile delinquency by promoting better community recreational facilities as well as better family relations for older boys and girls, (5) to lend active support to all efforts in behalf of material and child health, improved nutrition, better schools and vocational training and friendlier relations between people of different origins and beliefs.

The Old North State Elks of Greensboro held their educational program Sunday, October 15, at the Elks Home, 505 East Market street, and at the Institutional Baptist church. The program was opened at the Elks Home with the state president, L. E. Reynolds, addressing the visiting Daughters and Brothers of various cities, on the subject of fundamental principles of the order. He stated that the Elks should take a stand in their community whereby other organizations of the same nature might follow in their footsteps in making a more progressive race. He further stated that the organization should come to the aid of the less fortunate ones, namely, the underprivileged children, juvenile delinquents, and orphans. At the conclusion of his address, the lodge assembled in formation and marched to the Institutional Baptist church where the educational program was held for the benefit of a scholarship. Mr. W. E. Hooker, secretary and director of Education and special deputy, presided. G. T. Channell, secretary of Hayes-Taylor Y. M. C. A., gave the principle address in which he declared that the community needed more organizations like the Elks.

Miss O. Graves orated on the Negro in the Constitution. Other remarks were made by L. R. Russell, J. F. Johnson and A. R. Edmonson of Reidsville. Music was rendered by the Warrersville Glee club, under the direction of Alvis Rhodes. Exalted Ruler of the Old North State Lodge, and the Moorehead quartette. Following the program, a delicious repast was served at the Elks Home.

Negro Division of Community War Chest Goes Over Top

By a margin of 2,993, the campaign of the Greensboro Community and War chest went over the top Wednesday night with a total pledge of $205,756 on their goal of $202,763. This is the sixth consecutive year that the campaign has made its goal on schedule, John K. Voehringer, Jr., campaign chairman, stated today.

"From the majors to the GI's in the Community and War chest army," Mr. Voehringer declared, "workers have done a great job. No chairman could have had a finer group to work with."

All but three divisions in the entire organizations went over their quotas at the victory meeting at the Y. W. C. A. Wednesday night. When all the firms whose contributions are outstanding make their reports, all divisions will exceed their quotas, Mr. Voehringer said.

The Negro division, under the leadership of Dean J. C. McLaughlin and G. T. Channell, executive of the Hayes-Taylor Y. M. C. A., oversubscribed their quota of $1,500 and last night turned in $1,558 and stated that their report was incomplete.

The unit account division which included the 656 large business and industrial firms and the public employees reported a total of $162,223. Their goal of $162,263 will be oversubscribed when all reports are in, Mr. Voehringer said.

DR. J. C. McLAUGHLIN

Divisions of the unit account organization giving chairman, goal and amount reported to date were: public employees, W. H. Holderness, $12,250, $15,209; automobile-gas-oil, Larry Wilson and E. A. Hughes, $3,000, $3,256; finance, Hugh P. Beal, $5,500, $6,359; industrial, Herman Cone and W. J. Armfield III, $93,000, $87,139; insurance, Lloyd C. Amos, 10,500, $10,448; national firms, F. W. Patterson and O. L. Fryman, $4,800, $4,810; retail chain stores, $7,000, $7,179; retail, D. D. McDade, (Continued On Page Eight)

Teen Age Club To Hold Party Tuesday, Oct. 31

A Halloween party will be given for the Teen-age club at the Windsor Community Center Tuesday, October 31, at 8 p. m. All club members attending are asked to be masked. Prizes will be awarded to persons wearing the most excellent disguise, the most unique costume, and the most comical. Games and dancing will be featured during the evening, and refreshments will be served.

The North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Agency force gave a card party Thursday night, October 19, at the Windsor Community Center. There was an attendance of about 150 guests.

Miss Edna McDonald was honored with a birthday party at Windsor Center Friday evening, October 20.

Soldier recreation at Windsor Center continues as usual, with the exception of a change in the dance nights. The VSO girls will meet at the Center on Monday nights to go to ORD camp instead of Tuesdays.

Basketball has opened at the Center. There will be a Ladies' team, a Boys' team, a Junior Boys' team and Men's team. All persons interested, please come to the Center to sign up.

A. & T. Alumni Holds Meeting

The Gate City chapter of A. & T. College Alumni association held its first meeting Tuesday night, October 17, in the Dudley Memorial building. The discussion centered around the programs of such nature that would bring alumni in closer contact with each other. The first objective, the election of officers in the next meeting which will be held Tuesday night, October 31, (Continued On Page Eight)
