Vanstory High Man In City Election, Expected To Become New Mayor

C. M. Vanstory, Jr., member of a pioneer Greensboro family whose accomplishments have left their mark on the city, was high man in Tuesday's biennial city election for councilman, and if the council follows its usual custom he will be the next mayor.

The councilmen, who pick one of their own number for the mayoralty, ordinarily select the man who received the most votes in the election. This, of course, would depend on the receptivity of the high man, and Mr. Vanstory, known to his friends as Neal, apparently is willing to accept the post with all its responsibility. He is assistant treasurer of Burlington Mills Corporation, a former official of Security National Bank, and has been a member of council for several months, filling the unexpired term of E. F. Craven, retired.

A considerably larger vote was polled in Tuesday's election than in the primary a week before. Three other councilmen were re-elected, Fielding L. Fry and Elmer D. Yost winning in District No. 2 and C. V. Webster in District No. 1, which embraces the Cone Mill villages. The three newcomers are Orton A. Boren, general superintendent of Pomona Terra Cotta Company; John Van Lindley, president of Lindley Nurseries Company, and Thomas B. Bledsoe, president of Brown - Bledsoe Lumber Company.

Harry R. Stanley, attorney, present councilman, was defeated, along with Boyd Morris, cafeteria owner; P. G. Wilson, real estate man, and R. C. Sharpe, Negro minister and undertaker. Worth D. Henderson, attorney, and M. C. Anderson, taxicab company operator, withdrew after being nominated last week. Each got a fair-sized token-vote, however.

Ross M. Canada, textile worker, was defeated by Webster in District No. 1.

The vote follows:

DISTRICT No. 1
Webster	731
Canada	379
DISTRICT No. 2
Vanstory	3614
Boren	3265
Lindley	3222
Fry	2921
Bledsoe	2848
Yost	2590
Henderson	283
Anderson	233

The election returns were canvassed yesterday at noon and the new council will be inducted next Tuesday, May 15.

Dramatic Festival Thursday, Benefit Negro Day Nursery

Interest is growing high in Greensboro for the Dramatic Festival to be held Thursday night, May 17, at the James B. Dudley high school auditorium at 8 o'clock. This great affair represents the educational institution's interest in the local community and in particular the Greensboro Day Nursery which is under the sponsorship of the Greensboro Negro Business League.

College talents appearing on the program will be Greensboro's own Miss Angeline Tynes and Mr. Frank Cuthbertson, both students at A. and T. college, star-

Hayes-Taylor Y Off To Good Start In Annual Membership Drive

By C. A. IRVIN

Sixth annual membership campaign of the Hayes-Taylor Y. M. C. A. got off to a good start Sunday at 4:59 p. m., according to general chairman, Dr. W. M. Hampton, Dr. F. D. Bluford and Dr. McLaughlin.

Six hundred members and a sufficient amount of cash to meet the budgetary needs of the organization are the aims of the 10-day campaign.

First donation came from the Treble club, a ladies group that meets regularly at the 'Y,' of which Mrs. W. H. Moten is president. The ladies auxiliary, a counterpart of the Hayes-Taylor Y. M. C. A., of which Mrs. H. T. Hill is president, pledged its loyal support to the drive.

According to G. T. Channel, executive secretary, Hayes-Taylor, has, during the year ending May 3, 1945, rendered the following services:

- Assisted 40,573 persons in community groups;
- Granted meeting space for 65 different church groups;
- Host to Y. M. C. A. Laymen's Conference of North and South Carolina;
- Provided meeting place for the Interdenominational Ministerial Alliance weekly;
- One hundred sixty-five young people attended the City-wide Youth Training conference;
- Has Boys' 'Y' clubs and groups in all city schools;
- 30,575 services rendered to men in armed forces;
- Provided life-saving and swimming instruction to 215 beginners and advanced swimmers, 27

Selah Singers of New York

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR LEAVES USO CLUB

Mr. Herbert F. Thompson, who has served as program director for the East Market Street USO club, severs his connection with the United Service Organization as of May 15, 1945. Mr. Thompson, who has done a fine job with the program since coming here December 11, 1944, made his departure Tuesday, May 8, for a week's vacation before May 15. He plans to go overseas for the Red Cross.

A "going-away" party was staged at the club Monday evening instead of the scheduled card party. The affair, under the leadership of Pfc. Samuel Booker, who served as master of ceremonies, was a huge success with fine testimonials given by all groups concerned. Mr. Thompson was presented with shirts, socks, handkerchiefs and tie before the close of the party. Refreshments were served to the host of friends and well-wishers, who came to wish the departing director good fortune and bon voyage.

Annual Songfest At Stadium Sunday, May 20

A score or more of quartets and choirs will be heard in Memorial Stadium Sunday, May 20, when L. R. Russell presents his third annual Song Festival and Quartet contest.

Besides the musical groups to be heard there will be a list of distinguished leaders of both races in the field of civic and religious leadership. These will include Governor R. Gregg Cherry who has indicated that he may attend, Guilford county legislators, and city officials.

Heading the list of musical organizations comes the Selah Jubilee Singers of New York, who have proved the top drawing card at previous festivals.

Two other widely known musical groups to appear will be the Crowder's choir, of Philadelphia, and the Belleville Glee club of New York.

Among the other groups are Brooks Memorial church choir, High Point; Master Singers, High Point; Holiday's Jubilee Singers, Winston-Salem; Reidsville Harmonizers, Reidsville; Terra Cotta choir, Greensboro; Silver Trumpet choir, Greensboro; Masterkeys, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Burlington Jubilee Singers; Golden Star Quartet, Greensboro; Awakening Harp of Zion Choir, Rockingham; Rosebud Gospel Singers, Silver City; Brick High School Chorus; Bible Band Quartette, Greensboro; A Father and Three Sons, Greensboro; Providence Baptist choir, Hamlet; Danville Four; Female Friendly Four, Durham, and Silvertone Jubilee Singers, Greenwood, S. C.
