J. Herbert Love To Face Hit and Run Charge

J. Herbert Love, 24, of Winston-Salem, who has admitted, according to Winston-Salem police reports, that he was the man who struck Joe Hayes, 21, of Madison, with a car Sunday night on the Winston-Salem highway, Monday was brought to Greensboro to face the hit and run charge.

Attaches at L. Richardson hospital stated Monday that Hayes, who was struck about 10:30 a. m., as he walked toward Colfax, regained consciousness early Monday morning. He was taken to the hospital Sunday night suffering a possible skull fracture, broken left leg, mangled right hand, and extensive body bruises and lacerations.

Love is being held in Guilford county jail, where he was returned by state highway patrolmen Monday morning, in default of $1,000 bond. Hearing date has not been set.

Patrolmen found pieces of glass and metal from the car at the scene of the accident and about one-fourth of a mile further, discovered the car which apparently hit Hayes, they stated. The officers said the car which Love allegedly admitted driving, had been abandoned.

Melvin Loman, High Point, who said he was with Hayes at the time of the accident, reported that he, Joe Hayes and John Hayes, father of the injured man, were walking down the highway on the right hand side, and that Joe Hayes was on the inside next to the traffic when the car approached them.

THOMAS WILSON, CONCERT SINGER, AT A. AND T. COLLEGE

Thomas Wilson, baritone, was presented in concert Thursday morning at 11 o'clock in the Harrison auditorium at A. and T. College.

A native of Anderson, S. C., Wilson has studied in Washington, D. C., and in New York city. He has appeared at the White House as the guest of the late President Roosevelt; at Carnegie Hall, City College, New York, and has sung several times over major networks.

Highlights of his program included "Crao Mio Ben" (Dearest Believe) by Giordini; "If Thou Be Near You," by Bach; "Sit Down, Servant," arranged by Dett, and "O, What A Beautiful City," by Boatner.

Miss Evelyn Johnson, of Petersburg, Va., and an instructor at Elizabeth City Teachers College, accompanied Wilson at the piano.

The appearance of the artist at A. and T. College was a regular feature of the summer school lyceum.

Local Minister Claimed By Death

Rev. H. C. Miller, 62, died July 20, 1945, at the St. James Presbyterian manse, following an illness of seven months. Rev. Four Bound Over Poison Liquor Case

Poison alcohol last week caused the death of 11 High Point Negroes, and as a result, four other Negroes face charges of manslaughter. A hearing was held Monday before Judge Don MacRae, who bound them over to Superior court.

The four were booked as John C. Archie, father of three of the victims, Willis C. Phifer, James Nelson and his wife, Marie.

Phifer's bond was fixed at $5,000, and those of the other defendants at $3,000 each.

Archie and Phifer were accused of stealing denatured alcohol from an industrial plant and mixing it with water to produce a beverage called "smoke." The Nelsons were alleged to have bought some of the liquid and to have resold it.

BIBLE SCHOOL CLOSES

The vacation Bible school of St. Matthews Methodist church closed Friday evening, July 20, with a program of musical numbers and a very interesting play, demonstrating necessity of children following safety health and the Christian religion laws. Between 75 and 80 children took an active part in the 10-day session at which time Miss Lucy McWilliams gave daily Bible stories using colorful pictures with each story. Mrs. Eunice V. Cotton was instructor of the intermediate class, which did quite a bit of craft work for the exhibit. Mrs. Melba D. Whitley had charge of the music and taught the junior class. Mrs. W. E. Barksdale directed the playground activities. The kindergarten classes were taught by Misses Bessie Bethel and Essie Meadows, while Mrs. Lina B. Smith, the director, taught the primary class.

"This session of our Bible school," said F. B. Morris, superintendent of the Sunday school, "is one of the best I've ever attended." Mr. Morris and Rev. J. E. Brower, the pastor, plan to add a teacher-training class to the Bible school next year.

Siberia is one and a half times the size of the U. S.

Mrs. Cynthia Grace Hyatt, 24, (white), is to face a charge of murdering her 14-month-old son last April, next Tuesday during the criminal civil term of Guilford Superior court, which opens Monday at 10 a. m., Judge Felix E. Alley, of Waynesville, presiding.

Mary Elizabeth Graves, 15-year-old girl, indicted for murder of her new-born baby in May, is scheduled for trial Wednesday. Her mother, Mrs. Margie Graves, is to face a count of accessory after the fact.

A third capital case docketed for the term is that of Troy H. Gleason (white), charged with murdering his stepfather, Albert Bell. Gleason allegedly struck Bell with his fist when the older man ordered him to come to bed.

On the opening day of court Judge Alley is to order a special venire for the trial of Mrs. Hyatt. In the meantime, the defendant's attorney, H. L. Koontz, has stated that he intends to prepare an affidavit in an effort to have the venire drawn from Guilford county.

Solicitor J. Lee Wilson asked last term for a venire from a county other than Guilford, averring that the case has been given so much publicity that it will be difficult to get a jury from this county.

Mrs. Hyatt is still in county jail where she was placed shortly after the body of Tommy was found in an abandoned well at 821 Pearson street April 25.

Ruble Harley, 23, and Vincent Harley, 53, both in county jail, are on the trial calendar for Monday on incest charges.

A large number of charges of reckless driving and of operating automobiles while intoxicated appear on the criminal docket. The complete criminal calendar is as follows:

Clarence Brafford, each charged with operating an automobile while intoxicated; Fred Melton, assault; John Hooker and Robert Gaines, each reckless driving; James Wrenn and Brady Parker (alias Brady Williams and Brady Graves) attempted criminal assault and larceny from person; Alexander Gray, bigamy; Albert DeJournette, transporting whisky; Clarence (Jake) Mashburn, larceny from person; Ruble Harley and Vincent Harley, incest; George Lee Long, Jr., assault on female, disorderly conduct; John Paul Shields, larceny and receiving.
