SIXTH ANNUAL ALL STAR GAME HERE SUNDAY

Two teams of the south's greatest diamond performers will be seen in action here Sunday when A. J. Hammonds brings his sixth annual All-Star game to Memorial Stadium.

The strong Negro Marines who went down last year 6-4 will again face the All-Stars. Both squads have one game under their belt and are eager to settle the score for a second victory in this, the third visit of the Leathernecks.

Avid followers of the game are evenly split on a prophecy as to the outcome, and the betting is free and wild on both squads.

All-Star supporters are singing the praises of Smokey Joe Williams, who will get the call on the mound and recalling the 6-4 shellacking plastered on the Marlins last year in the fifth of the annual encounters.

Equally rabid Marine enthusiasts foresee a return of the brilliance first displayed here two years ago by the Leathernecks who won that time and pointing to the assortment of hurlers now available for duty.

Local fans can see some of their own diamond stars in action as well as the "cream of the crop" from other vicinities, said Hammonds. From among the several score applicants, the promoters have taken Bud Alston, pitching star of the Goshen Red Wings and Charles Herbin, third baseman of the Greensboro Black Yankees.

While nine other squads are represented in the lineup, these will provide local color. Among the other teams sending players are: N. C. Grays, Chicago American Giants, Philadelphia Stars, Winston-Salem Pond Giants, Durham Red Caps, Raleigh West Virginia Clippers, Spartanburg Sluggers, and Martinsville, Va., Cardinals.

An imposing list of notables from North and South Carolina and Virginia are expected to be in the stands. A veteran baseball fan, 68-year-old W. B. Johnson, of Richmond, Va., is heading a delegation from the Old Dominion. Johnson has been designated "Fan No. 1" of the All-Star game and will be making his third annual trip to the classic.

To throw out the first ball will be Charles G. Irving, state president, "Division B," American Legion, Raleigh.

Additional color to the diamond event will be furnished by a pin-up contest to determine the game's beauty queen of 1945.

A bag containing 100 pounds was found on the premises of Smith's home, five miles out on the Reidsville road. Officers reported finding a well vat which gave evidences of having had what appeared to have been mash in it. One half pint of white liquor was confiscated from the Smith place.

The sugar was allegedly stolen from the bakery storage basement between 5 p. m. and 9 p. m. July 21, and the case had been under investigation since that time.

Trial for the three is scheduled for Friday at 9:30 a. m. in municipal-county court.
