Woman Dies In Doctor's Office

Shown here is a patient at Guilford County Sanatorium making a rug while he rests in bed. Miss Martha Buttenheim is the teacher... The funds for this aid to patients is made possible by every one who buys Christmas Seals or supports the work of the Greensboro Tuberculosis Association.

REHABILITATION

Miss Martha Eliot Buttenheim, a graduate of the Kalamazoo school of Occupational Therapy, Kalamazoo, Michigan was recently engaged through the cooperation of the Greensboro Tuberculosis Association, as a teacher and counselor in occupational therapy, entertainment and rehabilitation at Guilford County Sanatorium, according to an announcement made yesterday by Beverly C. Moore, president of the association.

In addition to her degree in O.T., Miss Buttenheim is also a graduate of Vassar College and is registered as a qualified therapist with the American Occupational Therapy Association. She began her work April 1st as assistant to Miss Eva Reid, who started the program last September. Mr. Moore expressed a desire to thank the citizens of Greensboro and Guilford County for helping make this program possible through their purchase of Christmas Seals, for without their support this vital phase of the association's program to help tuberculosis patients would not have been possible.

"With proper guidance and instruction, many tuberculosis patients can master some of the fundamentals for useful occupations while they are still in the hospital," Mr. Moore said.

"Rehabilitation actually serves a two-fold purpose. It helps prepare the patient for an occupation when he leaves the hospital and, at the same time, it hastens the day when he will be able to leave in good physical condition. It hastens this day in that it diverts his mind from his disease, arouses his interest and gives him confidence in himself. Such patients, according to doctors, are more easily cured than those who are depressed and suffer the delusion that their usefulness is ended."

"The philosophy of rehabilitation," Mr. Moore continued, "means service to the individual on any level and includes the individual's adjustment to his own health problem, to his family and friends, to education, to work, to leisure and to society as a whole. It means service on a case work basis which takes into account recognized counseling techniques, and which aims to develop in the individual an ability to meet his problems adequately for himself and for the community in which he lives."

"The purpose of rehabilitation is to assist individuals who have or have had pulmonary tuberculosis in working out problems which arise or have arisen as a result of their illness."

"The mental benefits patients may obtain from participation in this plan are many. Invariably, the patient's morale is bolstered with the knowledge that increased activity is associated

POLICE SEIZE WHITE MARRIED GIRL WITH MAN IN RAID ON HOME OF NEGRO WOMAN

This is one of those pathetic stories of a broken home, police court suspended sentences and that sort of thing.

Arnold Lee Britt, married and father of children, is under a suspended sentence for three years and paid $50 and costs and Minnie Lee McDonald, pretty, young and married, is under a suspended sentence and she paid $25 and costs.

They were arrested as they occupied a room in the home of Jaunita Owens Brown, Negro woman, who faces charges of operating a disorderly home and selling whiskey.

She told police that Britt and the young woman came to her home and engaged the room. She admitted that she sold them whiskey.

The cops had a tip, a tip so direct that they knew it was a correct one, and they raided the home where the white truck driver and the young wife were found and arrested.

Mrs. McDonald's husband, according to the police, was at the station when the patrol car brought them to headquarters and he immediately posted bond and took his young wife home with him.

Jaunita Brown faces hearing on three distinct charges at some later date, having got a

Discharged Prof. Accuses President Of The College Of Negligence

In a three-hour session Wednesday afternoon, more than 20 charges against Dr. F. D. Bluford, president of A. and T. College, were heard by the executive committee of the board of trustees.

They were brought by A. C. Bowling, engineering professor, who after 17 years with the college this year was not "re-elected" to the faculty because of alleged lack of co-operation with the college administration.

Action on the charges was postponed until this afternoon at 2 o'clock when in a closed session the executive committee will meet again to consider their validity. Yesterday's meeting was open.

Seeks Clarification

Bowling is making no attempt to get back on the college faculty, he told the committee. He said he was interested mainly in clarifying the reasons for his dismissal.

Charles A. Hines, board chairman and presiding official at yesterday's session, in a sweeping analysis reduced the charges specifically to four. Included were:

1—Dr. Bluford allegedly used college materials in his home.

2—He had been consistently dishonest and unethical with students, teachers, general funds and college property.

3—That he favored the arts departments of the college over the engineering.

4.—Ineligible football players were allowed to participate in games.

But during Bowling's presentation of his "evidence," Pierce C. Rucker, member of the board, in his interpretation reduced all the charges to the fact that Bowling "seems to think Bluford is inefficient" and "that the two men disagreed generally about the way the engineering department should be run."

Denies All Charges

Dr. Bluford, in a brief presentation of testimony before Wednesday's session closed, denied all the charges, and Shelley B. Caveness, member of the board, told Bowling:

"So far as we can see, you have failed to indicate any reason for your charges of dishonesty. What I think you are trying to imply is that in your opinion the college administration has been inefficient."

Shortly after that, Rucker told Bowling that he thought the lat-
