Condolence
 Members and friends of Bethel were saddened to learn of the passing of Mrs. Earl Fields in Raleigh, N. C., sister of Mrs. Ida Belle Wilkins and Artie Boddie. May her family derive some measure of comfort in the knowledge that we share their grief with them. Catherine F. Gill Church Reporter.

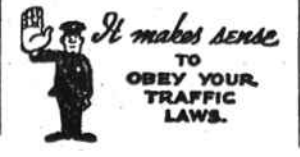

Aggies Nix Post Season Basketball Tournament Bid

The A&T College Aggies will not participate this year in any post season basketball tournaments.

That was the decision announced late Tuesday by Dr. William M. Bell, A&T athletic director. He stated that the Aggies had been invited by the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics (NAIA) to compete in a regional playoff game, or games, with high ranking member institutions in the Association's District 29, but declined the bid.

"Our team is just tired after a rugged season", Bell said, "and wishes to get back to the books." Winter quarter examinations at the college coincided with the suggested playoff date.

The Aggies won the CIAA Visitation title with a 15-3, conference record, (18-5) overall; reached the finals in the conference tournament held last week in Greensboro, before losing to Norfolk State College, completing the season with a 20-6 mark.

"Bye Bye Birdie" To Involve Several Depts. At A.&T. College

A musical comedy, "Bye Bye Birdie," to be produced at A&T College soon will involve "cross the board" participation by several departments at the college.

The play, written by Mike Steward, with music by Charles Strouse and the lyrics by Lee Adams, is to be staged by the A&T Richard B. Harrison Players.

The showing date, Monday evening, March 29, is a feature of a series of programs scheduled as a part of a week of festivities to be conducted in connection with the inauguration of Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, as sixth president of the college.

Dr. J. Marshall Stevenson, associate professor of English and director of the Harrison Players, told reporters last week that besides a cast of forty-persons, the sources of the A&T College Symphony Band, directed by Walter F. Carlson, Jr.; voices from the A&T College Choir, directed by Howard T. Pearsall; costuming, supervised by Mrs. Anne Davis of the Department of Home Economics; scenic designing by the A&T College Department of Art, Leroy F. Holmes, chairman, and choreography by Mrs. Eleanor Gwynn of the Department of Physical Education.

NAACP Launches Membership Drive

A&T Gets $45,000 Grant for Operation Of Institute for Elementary Teachers

A&T College has been awarded a grant of $45,000 by the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the operation this year of a Summer Institute for Elementary Teachers of Disadvantaged Youth.

Receipt of the grant was announced this week by Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college. He said Dr. Leonard H. Robinson, dean of the School of Education and General Studies, had been appointed as director of the Institute and that Donald P. Addison, assistant professor of sociology and social psychology, will serve as associate director.

Dr. Robinson said that, among others, the Institute has for its production will include the re-objective to: acquaint teachers with current testing and other tools available now in assessing pupils in terms of ability and personality; to provide teachers with opportunity to learn more about the values, attitudes and behavior of parents of disadvantaged youth, and to acquaint teachers with current developments and techniques in social psychology and group dynamics that have proven effective in helping culturally deprived youth to reach higher levels of development, and in developing higher levels of cooperation among the parents of disadvantaged youth.

The Institute will be conducted for eight weeks, beginning on June 14, and extending through August 6.

The enrollment will be restricted to 30 teachers from the elementary level. Participants will receive stipends of $75 per week, plus allowances for dependents at $15 per week and waiver of tuition fees.

Participants may procure graduate credit for the courses upon prior arrangement with the A&T College Graduate School.

Applications should be filed on special forms available by writing or calling Dr. L. H. Robinson, Institute director.

Sixty Bennett College Students Told To Search For New Truths

Sixty Bennett College students, cited for academic achievement, were told to "search for new truths to put new meanings into your lives" at the third annual spring honors convocation Friday.

Speaker was Miss Margaret Hickey, of St. Louis, Mo., businesswoman and public affairs editor of the Ladies Home Journal.

Citing the hunger around the world, "not only for food but for knowledge," Miss Hickey challenged the honorees to give of themselves in helping the world to solve its problems.

"No woman knows her own destiny," she declared. "So much of woman's life is concerned with caring for and caring about the lives of others. Your patterns of leadership, however, should not be to imitate men, but to be yourselves."

She urged the students to keep abreast of the changing times, adding "my wish for you is that the day may come when you will help the rest of us to live in a warm and compassionate world."

President Willa B. Player, who presided, presented certificates to 30 freshmen, 17 sophomores, five juniors and eight seniors. Freshmen were required to have maintained an average of 2.0 for one semester; sophomores an average of 2.2 or better for three semesters; juniors, 2.3 or better for five semesters and seniors, 2.4 or better for seven semesters.
