The North Carolina Mutual Life Insurance Company is sponsoring a public program Sunday 4 P. M. at Trinity A.M. E. Zion Church February 19, 1967 honoring N. L. Gregg, a retired officer of the company. Mr. Gregg retired from active service December 31, 1966. Before assuming a position as Asstant Agency Director of the company, Mr. Gregg was District Manager in charge of the Greensboro Office for more than 32 years, building one of the largest districts in the company's system.

This public program is designed to give Mr. Gregg, along with Mr. W. H. Headen who retired a few months ago, an opportunity to say thanks to their many friends and policyholders who cooperated with them over the years in their successful career-expanding approximately 40 years.

Mr. Gregg was born in Sumter, S. C., graduated from Johnson C. Smith University, Charlotte, N. C., the Agency Management School of the Life Insurance Agency Management Association and also an LUTC graduate. A & T Gets $28,000 Contract By USDA To Continue Research Project

A&T College has been awarded a contract of $28,000, by the U. S. Department of Agriculture, to continue a research project concerned with the utilization of wheat by the adult male.

The project, which begins this month, is being operated under the direction of Dr. Cecile H. Edwards, professor of nutrition and research. Dr. Seetha N. Ganapathy, associate professor of nutrition and research, will serve as co-director of the study.

Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of the college, announced receipt of the award this week. He said the new contract, the second in the series, brings to a total of $113,353, committed within three years to the project sponsored by the Human Nutrition Research Division, Agricultural Research Service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. A previous grant of $85,288, was awarded in February, 1965.

The objective of the research is to study the utilization of wheat by adult man. During a scientifically controlled diet period lasting 74 days, 12 college men were fed diets in which the major source of protein was provided by wheat bread. The men continued their usual college activities, receiving adequate calories, minerals and vitamins. The major difference to them was that all of their food was previously weighed and had to be eaten in the Human Research Metabolism Unit located in Hines

Hall of the A&T College campus. Even snacks, prepared by the research staff, were made for them from wheat starch.

Samples collected during the research study are being analyzed for 5 vitamins, 4 minerals, cholesterol, phospholipids, glycerides and total lipids, as well as many nitrogen containing compounds. During some of the 4 controlled dietary periods, the men received in addition to the wheat bread either pinto beans, rice or peanut butter permitting the research team to determine the effect of these foods on improving the utilization of wheat.

The new phase of the research grant will measure the effect of the wheat diets on urinary amino acids and pantothenic acid, 5 additional minerals, (selenium, molybdenum, copper, zinc and iron) and plasma proteins.

The staff of the project also includes Mrs. Lovie Booker, research chemist, Richard Craven, research technician, and three students who will gain research training and experience while assisting with the project.
