Cleveland Job Corps Director Defends Corps Before House Committee

Dr. Zelma George, executive center with some motivation, Dr. director of the Cleveland Job Corps Center for Women made a strong defense of the Job Corps before the House Labor and Education Committee, Monday. She urged continued Congressional support for the program, which is providing basic education and vocational training for young people who failed their first chances to complete their schooling or to hold jobs.

In a 15-page statement, and in answers to questions by members of the committee, Dr. George emphasized that youth who are estranged from school. jobs and society are part of the same world movement of restless young people that created the peace Corps. She called it "A Youth Culture." The typical Job Corps enrollee has not accepted traditional ideas about work, education and society, but has not worked out his own an-

The Job Corps is helping thousands of such young people reach useful adulthood by prethem and for living with others in an atmosphere of friendly concern.

Dr. George said the Cleveland center was the first established for women and has been in operation for two years. There are 345 girls enrolled from 46 states. including Indians direct from reservations, Hawaiians, whites, Negroes and many with Spanish speaking backgrounds.

The girls, all between 17 and 22 years of age, come to the George said, because the first step toward enrollment must be taken by each individual. They come bearing labels of failure, drop-out, slum-dweller, hardcore welfare case and others. One of the first jobs of the center, according to Dr. George, is to remove these labels.

She said the students express their felt needs in terms of vocational objectives which the center helps them achieve. The program includes on the job training and counselling. It also has programs in fine arts, crafts and home making. Several former enrollees have gone to college from the Cleveland center. Most go directly into employ-

The Cleveland center is operated by Alpha Kappa Alpha sorority, a predominantly Negro organization of 49,000 college trained women.

Present for Dr. George's testimony were Dr. Larzette Hale of Langston, Oklahoma, president, and Mrs. Carey B. Preston of Chicago, administrative officer of the sponsoring organization. Following her committee appearance, Dr. George was presented to several members of Congress by Dr. Hale at a reception (at the Sheraton-Carlton Hotel).

Guests included Senator and Mrs. A. S. Monroney of Oklahoma. Rep. Frances P. Bolton, Ren. John Steed, and Rep. Michael A. Feighan of Obio, and Rep. James Smith of Oklahoma.

Greensboro Area Scouters At Philmont

Cimarron, N. M. - Greensboro area Scout leaders Clarence S. Maxwell, John Oehman, William Phifer, Jr., Daniel Kozlovsky, Marvin Scott, James Raleigh, Thomas A. Harris, Bill Lovette, Dr. William Wisseman. Roger Betsinger, Dwight Holland, Gilbert McCain, Wayburn O'Brient and Norman E. Annis are now leading 124 Scouts on a 12-day expedition over the trails of the Sangre de Cristo mountains at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base. Philmont is 214-square mile national camping area of the Boy Scouts of America.

Sampson Buie, Jr., tour master and assistant Scout Executive of the General Greene Council, BSA, will supervise the group of North Carolina Scouts.

While on the trail, the expedition will have opportunities to participate in such activities as horseback riding, gold panning and mining, burro handling, geology, archaeology and wilderness conservation.

After registration and shakedown, the leaders and their Scouts departed from Camping Headquarters to begin their trek. They will spend their first three days on the trail with a Philmont Ranger, after which the leaders will take over.

The group will return home via the West Coast and the Scouting World Jamboree, following their participation in the Philmont Awards Campfire.

Cimarron, N. M. - One hundred, twenty-four Scouts and their leaders, representing the 8,000 Scouts and leaders of the General Greene Council, Boy Scouts of America, have arrived at Philmont Scout Ranch and Explorer Base. Following registration and shakedown, they will begin a 10-day high adventure trek of the 137,000 acre ranch.

The Scouts are now in training at the "university of the great outdoors" for their 12-day high adventure expedition under the guidance of Philmont's ranger staff. The group's ranger is instructing them in wilderness cookery, backpacking, hiking techniques and compass and map orientation. After three days with their ranger, the expedition will continue following mountain trails on the 214square mile ranch under their own adult leaders.

While on the trail, the Scouts will participate in program features offered in 26 camps by more than 400 staff members. These features include geology. earth science, gold panning and mining, archaeological study and digging, and mountaineering. This summer more than 15.000 Explorers and older Boy Scouts will take part in these and other
