Food for the Soul

Good old soul food is getting to be as popular nowadays as pizza pie. Originating in the South, many of the tasty soul food dishes are made with evaporated milk. The recipe featured here for Hominy Grits Souffle calls for eggs, seasonings and a large can of Carnation evaporated milk. The same evaporated milk can be used in most of your cooking—main dishes, soups, salads, desserts. It makes meat dishes juicier and soups and sauces creamier. And it's just like cream for use in whipped salads or other dishes.

HOMINY GRITS SOUFFLE

(Makes 6 to 8 servings)

- 1/2 cup hominy grits
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1 1/2 cups water
- 1 1/2 cups (large can) undiluted veivetized evaporated milk
- 1/4 cup softened butter
- 4 eggs, separated (at room temperature)

Mix together grits and salt in top of double boiler. Gradually stir in water, then evaporated milk. Cook covered over boiling water, stirring occasionally, 30 minutes. Remove from heat; blend in butter until melted. Slightly beat egg yolks; gradually stir grit mixture into egg yolks. Cool to lukewarm. Beat egg whites until stiff but not dry. Fold into cooled mixture. Gently turn into ungreased 2 1/2 quart souffle dish. Bake in 350° (moderate) oven 45 minutes or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Serve hot with melted butter, if desired.
