Appreciation Service

The Pastor's Aid Club of Bethel Church, North Regan Street and Friendly Avenue, under the leadership of Mrs. Eva Slappy, honored their pastor and his wife, Dr. and Mrs. Leon S. Penn, Sr., at an appreciation service in the Fellowship Hall of the church, Sunday, November 5, following the Union service. Mrs. Slappy was assisted by other organizations and members of Bethel in their effort to show appreciation for his stewardship during this Conference year.

The speaker for the evening was Rev. Cecil Bishop, pastor of Trinity A.M.E. Zion Church, E. Florida Street, Greensboro, N. C. Rev. Bishop had much praise for Dr. Penn for his work at Bethel, and in the community. His subject for the message was "A Door Open In Heaven."

Others appearing on the program were Rev. Hall, pastor of Gethsemane Baptist Church; Mrs. Serlena Boulware of Gethsemane Church; Mrs. Ann Spruill, Q. H. Holt, Mrs. Sarah Jackson, a representative from the Bethelites, and a representative of the Floral Club, who presented a beautiful bouquet of white chrysanthemums on behalf of the church. Dr. and Mrs. Penn thanked all for their interest.

Following the program a fellowship was held. Refreshments were served buffet style in the Intermediate Classroom from a table covered with a lovely cloth of white linen, and centered with a variety of fall flowers in an arrangement. Dainty sandwiches of chicken salad, and pimento; cake squares, fruit punch and coffee made up the menu.

Mrs. Slappy and members of the Pastor's Club wish to thank all who participated in any way to make this event a success. Others who have not contributed to this worthy cause may do so. It is not too late to get your contribution before Conference.

A&T N. C. State 6 - Florida A&M 63

Once-beaten Florida A&M University rained passes on a helpless A&T State University defense in downing the Aggies, 63-6 in an intersectional game here last Saturday.

In dropping their twelfth straight game to the Rattlers, the Aggies were unable to cope with a potent passing attack that netted Florida 363 of its 541 yards.

Spearheading the blitz were the Rattlers' quarterback Ken Riley and All-American end John Eason. A 220-pound senior, Eason caught three touchdown passes, two of them thrown by Riley. He also took a 51-yard scoring toss from Florida's other quarterback Elroy Morand.

Riley also combined on a 11-yard scoring pass with flanker Gene Milton.

Trailing 34-0 at halftime, the Aggies bounced back with their only score in the early moments of the third quarter, but couldn't keep the momentum up.

A&T got on the scoreboard when quarterback Merl Code sneaked one yard to climax a 79-yard march. The touchdown was set up by Aaron Patterson's 43-yard run.

Florida A&M also got plenty of help in the scoring department from halfback Glen Edwards who tallied three times on short runs. The other Rattler points were scored on a two-yard run by halfback Henry Scott and a safety gained when Florida's front wall tackled A. & T. punter Ray Parks in the end zone late in the fourth quarter.

Most of Florida's touchdowns terminated long drives. In the first period they moved 68 yards in two plays, with Riley's 63-yard toss to Eason putting the Rattlers out front.

Riley's second scoring pass to Eason came at the end of a 63-yard march. With Edwards and halfbacks Hubert Ginn and Jim Owens lugging the leather, the Rattlers moved to A&T's 22 from where Riley hit Eason again.

Riley's one-yard scoring run came with 9:17 left in the first half and ended a 50-yard drive. Two minutes later, a bad A&T punt gave Florida the ball on A&T's 30. Three plays later, Edwards crossed the goal line from five yards out.

On the next series of plays:

Rattler end Mel Jones picked off Code's pass on Florida's 40-yard line to set up another score. Four pass completions by Riley moved the ball to A&T's 11 from where Milton took the touchdown heave.

After A&T's touchdown, Florida scored two more markers in the third period, one with 7:06 remaining in the period and the other with 3:56 left.

Two touchdowns and the safety in the final period completed the scoring.

The Rattlers are 5-1 for the season and the Aggies are 1-5-1.

Esso Education Foundation Announces Six New Grants

Six new grants to help underwrite special projects for experimentation, research study, and innovation in higher education have been announced by the Esso Education Foundation. The recipients of the grants are the National Association of College and University Business Officers, Dartmouth College, the Southern Regional Education Board, Michigan State University, the Consortium of Universities in Washington, D. C., and the American Alumni Council.

Grants made by the Esso Education Foundation are funded by Standard Oil Company (New Jersey) and a number of its affiliates, including Humble Oil & Refining Company, Esso Research and Engineering Company, Esso Chemical Company, and Enjay Chemical Company.

The six awards come under the Esso Education Foundation's special purpose grant program, which is designed to help provide funds for specialized areas of education and for professional education organizations or for development work which significantly benefits higher education as well as the initiating organization.

The grant to the National Association of College and University Business Officers is to further an already successful program begun last year with funds from the Esso Education Foundation to improve business management at predominantly Negro colleges through a system of workshops and consultations.

The award to Dartmouth is to help support a planning conference in connection with experimental colleges which have been springing up within established colleges and universities. These colleges provide courses, usually not for academic credit, on topics requested by students and taught by invited faculty. At Dartmouth such courses range over a wide variety of topics from "The Stock Market" to "Introductory Japanese." The planning conference, representing both faculty and students from 25 such experimental colleges, will focus on organizing and financing the colleges, as well as on specific aspects of subject matter and course material.

The Southern Regional Education Board intends to use its grant to establish a council on computer centers and computer science education and research. The project involves a three-year development program to promote better use of computer facilities in institutions of higher education in the South and to assist in establishing sound training programs in computer sciences. The council will also serve to promote cooperative use of equipment and a systematic approach for communication
