COUPLE FINDS SIXTIES SOARING — A progress report for 1967 in 30 words or less, concerning the Glendon Breedys, above, of Brooklyn, N. Y., might read as follows: Wife promoted by Enjay Chemical Company. Husband promoted by Humble Oil & Refining Company, an affiliate of Enjay. A '68 Impala to replace the 1961-model family car. Mrs. Breedy, the former Miss Mary Gibson of Newark, was promoted to secretary by Enjay, after a year as a receptionist. Her husband was promoted to division supervisor by Humble Oil's Bayonne Plant, about 27 months after he joined the company there as an engineer in the Technical Division. Although the two young people (Mr. Breedy is 25) work for sister companies, they commute daily in opposite directions from their Clinton Avenue apartment and by different means of transportation. Above, Mrs. Breedy waves an early morning goodbye to her husband (also shown in inset photo) at the entrance to the subway which will take her to Enjay Chemical Company's Rockefeller Center headquarters in midtown Manhattan. She is now assigned to the chemical company's Investment Coordination Department. Mr. Breedy uses the car to drive to his job at the Humble Oil plant in New Jersey, where a large part of the manufacturing and mechanical operations of the plant's Asphalt and Terminating Division are under his supervision. He is a graduate of C.C.N.Y. with a mechanical-engineering degree.

If you are over 65 years of age and neglected to sign up for Medical Insurance when you reached 65, this is good news for you, so says Mr. W. L. O'Brien, Manager of the Greensboro Social Security Office.

Yes, it's now open season. Any has not already signed up for Medical Insurance under the Medicare program can sign up now. The exact dates are from October 1, 1967 to April 2, 1968. If you sign up during this open season, your coverage will not start until July 1968.

What advantage will it be to you? It will pay 80% of your doctor bills after the first $50.00. It does not matter whether the doctor treats you at his office, the hospital, a clinic, or at your home. Also, it covers up to 100 home health visits under an approved plan each year. It also covers other medical and health services regardless of where rendered, including such things as diagnostic test (X-ray, etc.), X-rays or radium treatments, surgical dressings, splints, cast, etc.

Now what does it cost? The present cost is $3.00 per month, but the Secretary has until December 31, 1967 to determine exactly what the cost will be for those just coming under it.
