HIGHER EARNINGS POSSIBLE WITHOUT BENEFIT DEDUCTIONS

By W. L. O'Brien

For older people and other beneficiaries who continue to work, the recent changes in social security will enable them to make more money and still draw some or all of their social security benefits.

The amount of money a person can earn in a year and still draw all his social security benefits has been raised. Beginning with 1968, a person who makes as much as $1,680 can still collect all of his social security benefits. Even if he earns considerably more than that, he may still draw some benefits. The old law had set that limit at $1,500, through 1967.

Here's how it now works. If you are working regularly and do not earn more than $1,680 a year in wages, you will receive all of your social security benefits each month.

If you are working regularly and make more than $1,680 a year, $1 will be withheld from your benefits for each $2 you make over $1,680, and up to $2.980. If you make more than $2,880, $1 will be deducted from your benefits for each $1 you make above that amount.

However, regardless of your total earnings for the year, you will receive your social security check for any month in which you do not earn more than $140 in wages and are not active in self-employment. This means that you could make any amount over $1,680 a year, and still receive your checks for any month that you do not work, but with deductions against the months you do work.

Remember, these new provisions apply to earnings in 1968. The old law applied to earnings and benefits in 1967.

As in the old law, there are no deductions taken from your social security benefits for any month after you reach 72, regardless of how much you earn in the year.

The provisions of the retirement test apply also to dependents of people who are receiving disability benefits, but not to the disabled worker himself. Special rules, including medical considerations, apply to people who are receiving benefits because of disability.

About 760,000 people across the country are expected to receive some $175 million in additional benefits during 1968, as a result of this change.

Aggies Cap Midwestern Tour With Rousing Win Over Akron

Akron, Ohio — A&T capped a tough Midwestern basketball tour with an impressive 89-73 victory over Akron University here last Saturday night.

Two nights earlier the Aggies dropped a 105-80 decision to nationally-ranked Kentucky Wesleyan. The win over the Zips upped A&T's record to 16-4 overall.

It was a tremendous 33-point effort by Aggie sharpshooter Jimmy Staggs that led to Akron's downfall. The 6-5 forward from Philadelphia who earned honorable mention All-CIAA for his play this season, pumped in points from all parts of the court.

Staggs' total was the highest scored by an A&T player this season. He hit on 15 of 23 shots from the floor and all three of his free throws.

Another A&T ace, Teddy Campbell, also from Philadelphia, pulled down 28 of the Aggies' 60 rebounds. This may well be another A&T record.

Ahead 41-36 at halftime, A&T began eluding Akron right after intermission when Staggs quickly reeled off three straight jump shots. That put the game out of sight for the Zippers, who had beaten the Aggies on three previous meetings.

Other Aggies scoring in double figures were Carl Hubbard and Vern Walker with 12 points each and Soapy Adams with 11 points.

It was a different story against Kentucky Wesleyan. If the Aggies had any intention of upsetting the hot shooting Panthers, that notion was dispelled after the first few minutes of the game.

Kentucky Wesleyan connected on eight shots in a row, then 14 of the first 16 tries in racing to a 53-36 halftime lead. The Pan-
