Circle No. 5 of St. Matthews United Methodist Church Holds Meeting

On Sunday, July 14 at 4:00 p. m., Circle No. 5 of the Woman's Society of the Christian Service of the St. Matthews United Methodist Church met at the home of Mrs. Gertrude A. Johnson, 1905 Drexmore Ave.

Among the business discussed at the meeting were the plans that the Circle was making for its part in a special musical program to be held at the St. Matthews Church on July 28 from 6:00 until 8:00 p. m. by the entire Woman's Society of Christian Service.

The officers of the Circle include: Mrs. Geraldine Youse, chairman; Mrs. Montez Bias, secretary; Mrs. Carolyn Caldwell, treasurer.

Following the meeting a delicious repast was served which consisted of chicken salad sandwiches, ice cream and cake, punch, peanuts and candy.

INTER-RELIGIOUS STUDY ON RACIAL CRISIS

New York, N. Y., July 16 — Publication of the first interreligious study and action guide on the racial crisis for use by Jewish, Protestant, Roman Catholic and Orthodox congregations was announced here today. It is published jointly by the U. S. Catholic Conference, the National Council of Churches, the Standing Conference of Orthodox Bishops in America and the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

This interfaith edition of Crisis in America: Hope Through Action, not only cites issues, facts and "myths," for study but suggests action lines for congregations and communities to change white racial attitudes and to achieve equal opportunities for minorities.

Suggested action lines in the booklet include: 1) opening job opportunities for non-whites on staffs of religious organizations, 2) investing funds of these organizations in enterprises where racial justice is practiced, 3) opening summer camps for interracial living through special scholarships and other provisions, and 4) helping break down neighborhood or community barriers to open housing.

The first edition of the booklet was distributed in March to denominations of the National Council of Churches as part of a 29-piece study packet. The new interreligious edition, somewhat revised by a special committee, is for use by the sponsoring bodies for local study groups.

The National Council has already distributed 200,000 copies of the first edition, now in its second printing. Orders are anticipated for several hundred thousand copies of the new interreligious edition.

Members of the editorial committee, which revised the booklet, were the Rev. David J. Bowman, S. J.; the Rev. Dr. Gerald E. Knoff, associate general secretary of the NCC Division of Christian Education; the Rev. Donald Campion, S. J., editor of America magazine; the Rev. Robert Stephanopoulos, pastor of the Greek Orthodox Church of Our Saviour, Rye, N. Y.; and Rabbi Balfour Brickner, director of Interfaith Activities of the Union of American Hebrew Congregations.

Father Bowman, chairman of the Committee, is the first Roman Catholic to hold an executive staff position with the Na-

N. C. College President Announces Grant of $8,500.00

Dr. Albert N. Whiting
President

North Carolina College

Academic enrichment, cultural enrichment, and community service are the major areas with which our Joint Committee has been concerned since April.

We have received an $8,500 grant from the Mary Duke Biddle Foundation for "seed money" for programs in all of these areas.

Among the academic enrichment programs which may be developed by the several teams involved in this area are lecture programs sponsored by both schools, student exchange programs at the undergraduate and graduate levels, and faculty exchanges.

The cultural enrichment programs will include joint concerts by choirs and bands, musical, dramatic, and artistic activities involving both schools, informal recreational programs, and special social activities.

In the area of community services, these joint programs are under consideration — a long range study of health needs and the use of health facilities in the community, joint legal aid projects, a program of employment training and placement, and the development of a low cost housing model.

HOSPITAL BABY CONTEST PLANNED

The Committee on Decoration for the L. Richardson Hospital during the Christmas holiday is making preparation for a baby contest which is to be held on the lawn of the hospital. The proposed date is Labor Day or shortly afterward. Requests have been made to ask all mothers of babies born since Christmas, 1967 up until the present at the L. Richardson Hospital to sponsor their baby.

Tickets will be sold at 25 cents. Prizes will be given to all babies who take part in the contest. Please call your baby's name in to the Future Outlook office — 273-1758 or the L. Richardson Hospital's switchboard — 275-9741 — as soon as possible. J. F. Johnson, chairman.
