Veteran's Corner

NO. 43

Editor's Note: below are authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—My son is being discharged from service next month and I want to be sure he keeps his veterans insurance. I regret that I dropped mine after World War II. What does he have to do?

A—Servicemen are now covered up to $10,000 while on active duty and for 120 days thereafter by Servicemen's Group Life Insurance. Unlike after World War II, however, they cannot keep this insurance as veterans insurance. Instead, within 120 days after being separated from service they must convert their SGLI policies to policies with a commercial company. Nearly 600 companies have been approved by the VA to offer converted.

If your son has a service-connected disability, he may also be eligible for $10,000 special insurance through the VA that can be in addition to or in the place of his converted SGLI coverage. He should check with his nearest VA regional office after he gets out of service concerning all of his veterans benefits.

Q—I am a veteran attending college under the G. I. Bill and plan to be married in the near future. Can I claim my wife as a dependent for an increased educational allowance from the Veterans Administration even though she will be working? What documents do I have to submit to VA?

A—Yes, you may claim your wife as a dependent regardless of whether she is working. As a full-time student your VA educational assistance allowance under the G. I. Bill will be increased from $130 to $155 a month.

You should tell VA immediately when you are married, since your increased allowance will be dated from the time VA is notified of your marriage. Then as soon as possible you should furnish VA with a copy of the public record of your marriage. VA must have a copy of this record before it can pay you the increased allowance.

President Signs Bill

President Johnson signed into law Oct. 23 a precedent-setting bill giving education and training benefits to widows of men who died — and the wives of veterans who are totally and permanently disabled — as the result of military service.

W. R. Phillips, Manager of the Winston-Salem Veterans Administration Regional Office, said that after Dec. 1, 1968, when the new law goes into effect, these wives and widows will be eligible for the same Veterans Administration educational assistance now available to the sons and daughters of veterans who died or are permanently and totally disabled as a result of military service.

"This marks the first time in the history of veterans' benefits in the United States that widows and wives will be authorized a VA educational assistance allowance," Phillips said.

Payments will range from $130 a month for full-time training (up to a maximum of 36 months) to $95 for three-quarters time training and $60 for half-time training.

The new law, PL 90-631, also gives veterans separated from service after Jan. 31, 1955, one-and-one-half months of education and training entitlement under the current Post-Korean GI Bill for each month of military service after Jan. 31, 1955. This is a change from the present ratio of one month of entitlement for each month of service.

Unchanged, however, is the maximum of 36 months of entitlement.

Under another provision of the law that goes into effect the first of December, veterans with 18 months or more of service after Jan. 31, 1955, who have satisfied their military obligation, will be entitled to 36 months of VA educational assistance.

Other provisions of the new law:

- Increase from 36 to 48 months the aggregate period for which a veteran may receive educational assistance under two or more Federal veteran benefit programs.

- Authorize the payment of the VA allowance to veterans in flight training on a monthly rather than quarterly basis.

- Permit three-quarters and half-time farm cooperative training with proportionate reductions in the VA allowance paid for such training. Currently, a veteran employed in related agricultural work who is enrolled in farm cooperative training must take a minimum of 12 clock hours of institutional agricultural courses a week. The new law authorized VA benefits for nine and six hour schedules.
