Retired Teacher Passes

Mrs. Connie Montgomer Mebane departed this life on May 6, 1969 at the L. Richardson Memorial Hospital after being in declining health for a few years.

Mrs. Mebane, daughter of Mrs. Barbara Montgomery, was born on November 26, 1883 in Guilford County. She was reared in the Holmes community, where, early in life, she joined the Holmes Grove United Methodist Church. In 1929, she was married to the late Mr. William Thomas Mebane of the Guilford College community.

She was a retired school teacher. She received a B. A. B. degree in elementary school education from Brown College in 1942. Over a period of forty years, she held teaching positions at a number of elementary schools serving the county. Among these were Holmes Grove, Basses Chapel, Goshen, and the Rena M. Pollock schools. Being a dedicated teacher with missionary zeal, her interest in her pupils extended far beyond the classroom and the schoolyard. She was in the habit of following the progress of her pupils even into their adulthood. A large number of girls and boys were inspired to work toward the best things of life by her words and by her example.

She leaves to mourn her loss Mrs. Anna Tatum, sister-in-law of the home and a host of relatives and friends. Funeral will be held at 4:00 p. m. on Friday

MR. JIMMIE I. BARBER

A&T Professor Only Negro Elected To Greensboro City Council

Jimmie I. Barber, veteran community, civic, and religious leader, chalked up another important political win for Negroes in North Carolina last week when he won election to the Greensboro City Council.

Barber, director of housing and an assistant professor at his alma mater, A&T State University, polled 7,038 votes in the election for a sixth place finish in the race for seven councilmen. He was the only Negro elected.

By winning his seat, Barber became the first black councilman in the city since 1963, when Waldo Faulkner failed to regain the place he had held for four years.

Barber's successful campaign was due, in part, to the heavy support he received from the predominantly-Negro precincts, although he received more than representative support from the white voters.

Immediately after learning of his election, Barber said that his energies will be channeled into helping to continue the fight against "ghetto and blight problems in the city." "I owe my election to my sincere involvement with people and their affairs," he added.

More than 16,405 voters turned out for the election. Barber's election is cast in the context of a drive for broader representation on the council.

A native of Trenton, N. C., he holds degrees from A&T and New York University. Barber is president of the Rowan Baptist Sunday School Convention of North Carolina, chairman of the housing subcommittee of the Greensboro Human Relations Commission, member of the board of directors of the Greensboro Community Council, advisor to the Mayor's Youth Council, and a member of the planning committee of the Opportunity Industrial Center. He is also active in the Greensboro Chamber of Commerce, the General Greene Boy Scout Council.

Barber is married to the former Kathryn Bennett of Enterprise, Ala. The Barberrs have a daughter, Miss Mary Olivia, a teacher at Miami-Dade Junior College.

The original force of Indian fighters numbered 106,000. Today there are only two surviving veterans of those wars.

The Veterans Administration administers laws authorizing benefits for veterans, their dependents and beneficiaries.

Larnie Newton McAdoo, age 63, of 1319 Pisgah Church Road died Saturday at Carolina Nursing Center after several years of declining health. He was for many years operator of United Taxi No. 15, and a lifelong member of Bass Chapel United Methodist Church.

Surviving are his widow, Miss Jessie Hold McAdoo of the home; four sons, James, Alphonso and Norris McAdoo, all of New York City, and Douglas McAdoo of Greensboro; four daughters, Betty McAdoo of the home, Mrs. Cecil McLean, Mrs. Lyvonne Drake and Mrs. Loretta Spaulding, both of Greensboro; one brother, Willis McAdoo of New York City; five sisters, Mrs. Agnes Holt, Mrs. Ronelva Houston, Mrs. Margie Douglass and Mrs. Dorothy Caviness, all of Bridgeport, Conn., and Mrs. Lura Watson of New York City; two grandchildren, Cynthia and Lonnie McAdoo of the home.

Funeral services will be held Tuesday at 3:00 p. m. at the Bass Chapel United Methodist Church. The family will be at Hargett Funeral Service from 7:30 to 9:00 p. m. Monday evening.

Hargett Funeral Service was in charge of arrangements.

MRS. CONNIE M. MEBANE

at the Holmes Grove United Methodist Church where she was a life-long member. The Rev. J. A. Gray, pastor, will officiate. Burial will take place at the Raleigh Crossroads Cemetery.
