Two A&T Students Convicted And Sentenced For Dudley Disturbance

By Bill Rhodes Weaver
Daily News Staff Writer

Three persons, including two student leaders at A&T State University, drew eight-month sentences Tuesday for disturbing Dudley High School here May 9.

The sentences given by District Court Judge Bryon Haworth were appealed to Guilford Superior Court. Bond for each defendant was set at $500.

Convicted after a trial Tuesday in District Court were Vincent McCullough, rising A&T State student body president; Nelson N. Johnson, rising student vice president; and Robert Evans of 912 Salem St., a 1968 graduate of Smith High School. Freed of the charge was Michael Akins of 306 Avalon Road, who at the time was a student at Page High School.

Franklin Brown, Dudley principal, said Johnson and Evans led double processions onto the high school campus and came into the building. "I asked them to leave and they said they weren't going to leave. I had to dismiss school."

The processions were a demonstration against the disquali-

Equal Opportunity Nears, Loving Tells A&T Audience

The first black full professor at the University of Michigan predicted last Tuesday night that by the year 2,000, "equality of opportunity will be a way of life in the United States."

Dr. Alvin D. Loving, Sr., a professor of education since 1956, was the initial speaker on the third annual summer lecture-lyceum series at A&T State University.

Addressed nearly 200 students, faculty and persons from the community, Loving said:

"As one looks at the American scene, it seems foolhardy to be optimistic, but either you have faith in mankind or you don't."

"People have said 'give us 100 years and we will solve our differences,' added Loving. "We no longer have 100 years."

Loving said he detects in this nation substantial concern about the social problems.

"If we were not concerned," he noted, "we would not have been involved in the kind of dialogue that produced the Kerner Report. This report is not an end in itself, but it is a part of the dialogue."

Loving said he has also been encouraged by the rising concern being shown by government, the churches and such groups as the Chambers of Commerce in the various cities.

He said that both the educa-
