

A.M.E. BISHOP TO PREACH AT ST. MATTHEW'S CHURCH

Bishop D. Ward Nichols of New York City will preach at St. Matthew's United Methodist Church on Sunday at 11:00 a.m.

Senior Prelate of the African Methodist Episcopal Church, the South Carolina native was pastor of New York's Emmanuel A.M.E. Church before his election to the episcopacy in 1940. Since that time, he has presided over conferences in New York, New England, District of Columbia, Maryland, Alabama, Florida, West Indies, and West Africa. At present, he presides over the Twelfth Episcopal District, comprising Arkansas and Oklahoma.

Bishop Nichols is a graduate of Howard University in Washington, D. C., and of Drew Theological Seminary, in Madison, New Jersey. He also studied at Columbia University and Union Theological Seminary in New York.

In addition to his episcopal responsibilities, the bishop is active in both the National and World Council of Churches, having served on the Central Committee of the latter. He is frequently in Europe and has traveled around the world three times.

Bishop Nichols is active in the civil rights movement, and has been arrested several times in his home town, Charleston, South Carolina. He is a member of the Board of Directors of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and a Life Member of the N.A.A.C.P. He is in the vanguard of the Black Movement. His outstanding churchmanship has won for him honorary degrees from Wilberforce University, Morris Brown College, Allen University, and Paul Quinn College.

At this time, the Bishop comes to Greensboro to participate in the Taylor Family Reunion. He will be the morning preacher at the 11:00 A.M. service at St. Matthew's, where the family will worship. His daughter, Sioux, is married to Abe Taylor, brother of Mrs. Rosa Taylor Winchester of Greensboro.

Joseph B. Bethea, Pastor of St. Matthew's, extends a cordial welcome to the church, located at the corner of South Ashe and Lee Streets.

Medicare Benefits Payable, Regardless Of Employment

Medicare benefits are payable at 65 even if a person continues to work full time and is not collecting his social security benefits.

"People nearing 65 whether or not they plan to retire, should visit the social security office at 324 W. Market St.," Charles H. Myers, Greensboro social security district manager, said today. It is important, he noted, to apply during the 3 months before you turn 65 to be sure that your Medicare protection will begin as soon as you reach 65. Otherwise, you may lose coverage of some of your medical bills.

Myers explained that Medicare is divided into two parts.

"One part is hospital insurance," he said. "This is paid from social security contributions made during your working lifetime. Virtually every employed person now reaching 65 is eligible for and has paid for hospital insurance protection. And if a worker is eligible, so is his wife at age 65.

This part of Medicare helps pay for your care in a hospital and for certain kinds of care you may need after you leave the hospital.

"But that is only half of the Medicare story," he continued.

"The other half is the supplementary medical insurance that helps pay doctors' and surgeons' bills and a wide variety of other medical expenses. You pay half the cost of the medical insurance through a premium of $4 a month. The government pays the other half. It is particularly important that you apply for your medical insurance coverage before you reach 65 since this is a voluntary program with limited enrollment periods," said Myers.

Mr. Myers said doctor bills were the main medical expense covered by this insurance. However, he added, medical insurance under Medicare covers many other medical services and supplies. These range from home health care visits to ambulance service and the rental or purchase of durable medical equipment.

Mr. Myers urges those who want more information about Medicare, and those who are nearing 65, to visit his office.

Community Action Grant Renewed

E. W. Harris, director of the department of adult education at A&T State University, was notified this week that the University's federal grant for training of leaders for low-income areas has been renewed. The original grant was for $24,000 to help families become thrift-minded.

BENNETT COLLEGE TO SPONSOR AFRO-AMERICAN INSTITUTE

President Isaac H. Miller, announces that Bennett College will sponsor an Afro-American Studies Institute for elementary and secondary school teachers beginning on Saturday, Sept. 20. The Institute will be conducted under a grant from the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, United States Office of Education, authorized under the Education Professions Development Act. Programs under this act are directed toward making teachers more effective in offering children an education adapted to an era of rapid technological and social change and in dealing with the communities they serve.

The Bennett College institute, with Dr. George Breathett as director and Dr. Dorothy Bardsolph as assistant Director, will provide an opportunity for elementary and secondary school teachers and librarians in Greensboro, High Point, and Guilford County schools and surrounding areas to survey African and Afro-American studies in preparation for integrating this subject matter into school curricula. Since this is an area of study which few teachers have pursued in their years of training and is one which is necessitated by problems of community relations, Bennett College will provide the session for teachers every Saturday morning throughout the school year September 20, 1969, to May 16, 1970. Study will focus on—

1. The History of Black American from Africa into the 20th Century.
2. Anthropological, Sociological, and Psychological Consideration in the Study of Black Americans.
3. Contributions of Black Americans to the Arts, Sciences, and Institutions.
4. Some Relevant Current Issues.

Participants will have an opportunity to deepen their acquaintance with both printed and audio-visual instructional materials, classroom resources and improved methods of social education.

Principals and librarians of local schools have received materials describing the institute to which sixty experienced teachers and librarians will be admitted on an expense-free basis. Further information will be available from the Director.
