ALL-TIME GREAT CIAA STARS TO BE HONORED AT TOURNEY

An all-time great basketball team, representing the top players who have appeared in the CIAA Tournament over the past 24 years, will be honored at the annual tournament February 26-28.

Sponsors of the tournament said this week that the select mythical team will be chosen by a panel of coaches, fans and officials from throughout the nation.

The 10 members of the team will be honored guests at the tournament and will be honored at a special luncheon February 28 by Commercial Credit Company of Baltimore, Md.

"This will be a real dream team," said L. D. Smith of Richmond, Va., chairman of the tournament committee, "as this conference has produced some of the outstanding basketball players of this period."

Serving as honorary chairman of the blue ribbon selection committee will be Johnny McLendon, one of the nation's most successful basketball coaches.

McLendon's North Carolina College team won the original CIAA Tournament in 1946 by beating Virginia Union in triple overtime.

He has also coached at Hampton Institute, Kentucky State, Cleveland State and Tennessee State. While at Tennessee State, his teams won an unprecedented three straight NAIA championships.

McLendon also formerly coached the Cleveland Pipers of the American Basketball League. He was the first black head coach in a professional league.

One of the considered authorities of "fast break" basketball, McLendon also coached the Denver Rockets, also of the ABA.

McLendon was one of four members of the original CIAA Tournament committees. The first playoffs were staged at Turner's Arena in Washington, D. C.

The tournament has also been held in Baltimore, Durham and Winston-Salem.

Current pro basketball standouts who have played in the CIAA Tournament include Earl Monroe and Mike Davis, Baltimore Bullets; Al Attles, player-assistant coach with the San Francisco Warriors and Bobby Dandridge, Milwaukee Bucs.
