A&T Wins duPont Grant of $45,000 To Support Program in Engineering

Wilmington, Del.—A&T State University has been awarded a grant of $45,000 for its School of Engineering from the E. I. duPont de Nemours & Company.

Announcement of the duPont Engineering grant was made Friday by C. B. McCoy, president of the company.

Dr. Lewis C. Dowdy, president of A&T, said the funds will be used primarily for teaching and research.

"The increase in the commitment for engineering at your university is made in recognition of the nation's need for an expanded supply of graduates with good engineering qualifications," said McCoy. "It also signifies our enthusiastic endorsement of the Atomic Energy Commission's proposal for increased support for predominantly black institutions offering baccalaureate degrees in engineering."

McCoy noted that there is a national shortage of black graduates in science and engineering. "Stronger curricula in these colleges can help to provide these graduates," he said.

The A&T School of Engineering is one of the three nationally accredited facilities in the state. The school offers programs in architectural, mechanical and electrical engineering. Plans are currently underway for a master's degree program in engineering.

The pastor and members of St. Matthews United Methodist Church are proud of their new edifice located at the corner of E. Florida and Asheboro Streets.
