

The Futur Outlook

Keep Up With The Times — News — The Outlook!

VOL. 30, NO. 17

GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, MARCH 12, 1971

PRICE: 10 CENTS

Veterans' Corner

Editor's Note: Veterans and their dependents are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q — I am 62 years old, and desire to convert my National Service Life Insurance term policy to the modified life plan. What premium must I pay?

A — Sorry, you cannot convert to the modified life plan after age 60. However, Ordinary Life has the lowest premium of the other plans available at your age.

Q — I understand veterans have deadlines which they must meet to be eligible for certain benefits. Is there a deadline for applying for VA hospital care?

A — No. There is no time limit for a veteran to receive hospital care if he is eligible, needs it, and a bed is available. Beds are always available at VA hospitals for veterans with a service-connected disability.

Q — Is a veteran penalized if he pays off a GI home mortgage loan before it is due?

A — No. A GI loan may be prepaid without penalty at any time. Prepayments may be made in the amount of the regular monthly installment or $100, whichever is lesser, or in a larger amount.

Q — I wish to apply for a certificate of eligibility for a GI loan, but I lost my DD-214, Armed Forces Report of Transfer or Discharge. What should I do?

A — The VA will accept a legible copy of an original discharge or release from active duty. If a copy is not available, apply at any VA office for an application form for a replacement.

Q — When will I receive my dividend check on my GI insurance?

A — If all premiums due have been received, checks are mailed by the policy anniversary date, and should be received shortly thereafter.

Q — Can a veteran go to any school, or pursue any educational program he desires?

A — Yes, if the course of program leads to a recognized educational, vocational or professional program.

(Continued on Page 4)

FRAZIER & CLAY RECEIVE $2.5 MILLION EACH FROM MONDAY NIGHT'S CHAMPIONSHIP FIGHT

FRAZIER: WHO'S CHAMP?

New York (AP) — "I don't think he wants a rematch—not right now, anyway," said Joe Frazier moments after he scored a unanimous 15-round decision over Muhammad Ali to retain his world heavyweight championship Monday night.

"Who's the champ? . . . Who's the champ?" Frazier repeated the question three times. Although he had scored a one-sided victory, he hardly looked like the winner.

His face was lumpy, especially around the eyes. It was the price he paid for carrying the fight to Ali, often charging into the ex-champ, head lowered and apparently oblivious to any blows he absorbed.

Clay was taken to a hospital and Bundini Brown, one of his handlers, said he had a broken jaw. It was not certain in what round it happened.

Frazier, who put in a full night's work for his $2.5-million purse and looked it, excused himself from the post-fight news conference.

"Let me go straighten my face up," he said. "I ain't this ugly."

Frazier said he dropped his arms during the fight "to let him know he can't hurt me. I feel stronger now than when I went in."

The champion made a point of calling Ali by his former name, Cassius Clay. He repeated the name "Clay" three times at one point, each time emphasizing the name that Ali discarded after winning the heavyweight crown in 1964.

"Let me tell you one thing, though," said Frazier. "That man takes some punch. I nit him some shots, and he took the best of them."

Frazier said he decked Ali with a left hook in the 15th round. "That came from the country. I reached way back for that one."

Ali landed flat on his back from the punch, made it to his feet at the count of four and took the mandatory eight-count from referee Art Mercante.

"I couldn't help him getting up," said Frazier, "but I knew he was going back down." However, Ali remained on his feet for the remainder of the fight.

Frazier and Ali had carried on a running commentary and both were warned several times by Mercante to stop the talking.

"He was laying a lot of ghetto talk on me, saying he was gonna kill me and that," said Frazier. "I just said, 'I'll do the same to you.'"

Asked if he thought Frazier had broken Ali's jaw, with that devastating left in the 15th,

(Continued on Page 5)

Bishop L. Scott Allen Speaker at St. Matthews

Sunday, March 21 will be Fellowship Sunday at St. Matthews United Methodist Church. The occasion is planned as a part of the opening activities of the new church building which is located at the corner of Asheboro and Florida Streets.

At 11 A.M. on Sunday, Bishop L. Scott Allen of Knoxville, Tenn., Resident Bishop of the Holston Area of the United Methodist Church, will preach. Following the service of worship the Church-Wide Fellowship Meal will be served in the new Fellowship Hall. Members and friends of St. Matthews are invited and urged to attend and participate in this day of Fellowship.

Bennett College Presents Dance Recital

The Bennett College Dance Club will present one in a series of Lenten Programs at the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church on March 19th at 7:00 p.m.

The program is a four movement dance, Rejuvenation. It was choreographed by Laurice Weed, dance instructor at Bennett College. The dance theme projects the purpose of Lent. Originally Lent instructed pagan converts in the faith. The Lenten season is a call for a renewed spiritual effort.

The inspiration and stimuli for the dance originated from the personal feelings and searching experience of Miss Weed. The dancers are structural elements of line and mass rather than people cast in roles. The purpose of this program is to present a more contemporary Lenten service through the use of young people and the arts.

The music for the program will be Anton Webern's Five Movements for String Quartet.

TRAINING COMPLETE

Miss Gladys E. Kearney, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Kearney of 823 Logan St., has recently completed a term of office internship with the Foundation of Community Development in Durham, N. C. Miss Kearney is presently a senior at Durham Business College.

Happy birthday Editor J. F. Johnson on your birthday, March 12th.