The Rt. Rev. Hudson W. Fields, D.D., celebrated his 14th anniversary as Pastor in Kingdom Building at Hayes' Memorial United Holy Church of America, Inc. Greensboro, N. C. Special services were held during the entire week of October 3-10.

These words of tribute to Rev. Fields appeared in the program for the week:

"Dr. Fields has faithfully and successfully served for fourteen years as an executive of the church, pastor and minister.

He has courage, faith and an invincible determination to do something each day so that God's will may be fulfilled through his servant. Our pastor is a wonderful man who seeks to promote the Salvation of Souls and carry the spirit of faith, hope and love into every home. He has shared his people's hopes, fears, joys and sorrows.

Pastor Fields has been to us a leader interpreting current events, a teacher instructing us in truth, an executive heading our business affairs, and a pastor regenerating our society.

Greatest of all, Pastor Fields has been an ambassador for Christ. His object has been to give to the world the message which has been given to him by God, and to impart to all people the knowledge of the saving grace of Jesus Christ.

May God ever bless you in all your work, and we wish for you many more happy anniversaries at Hayes Memorial Church as pastor."

Featured this year are two outstanding new events presented by the University family.

Already underway is the Richard B. Harrison Players' production of the hit Broadway musical, "The King and I." The production, with a cast of 50 persons, opened in the Paul Robeson Theatre on Monday and will run nightly through Saturday.

Persons interested in seeing the play may make reservations by calling the boxoffice at the University.

Another highlight of the celebration is the first annual induction ceremony for the A&T Sports Hall of Fame. The banquet was scheduled for Friday at 6:30 p.m. in the Memorial Student Union.

Seven former athletic stars were to be inducted into the Hall of Fame.

The Homecoming football game on Saturday is expected to draw upwards of 20,000 persons to Greensboro Memorial Stadium.

The Aggies will face strong University of Maryland at Eastern Shore, a team which tied national power Morgan State last week.

The annual Alumni Ball will be held Saturday night at 10 p.m. in the Exhibition Hall at the Greensboro Coliseum.

Other activities will include a mile-long parade on Saturday at 11 a.m., the President's breakfast for alumni officials on Saturday at 11, and the annual Alumni Worship Service on Sunday at 11 a.m. in the Richard B.
