Nobody can ever really take the place of Marian Wiley. Her fifth grade class at Sedgefield said so today.

They loved her very much

MRS. MARIAN R. WILEY

because. . . When she had to go out of the room, she would make them laugh by acting like Flip Wilson and Geraldine.

She was fair to everybody and she loved children.

If she spanked you or something, she would come back a little while later and be nice to you.

Every morning she would come in and say "good morning" and cheer everybody up. And each day when school was over, she would hug all the "riders and walkers" when they left the room.

Mrs. Wiley's class said their teacher had big brown eyes and cold black hair that was curly and real nice and neat.

They said she was pretty and wore nice clothes. And her face had many different expressions that told about the way she felt.

She spoke very slowly and clearly and "would sometimes tell us about Buffalo, N. Y."

Mrs. Wiley had to go in the hospital Thursday, Nov. 4. She went in for a minor operation but died on Friday a week later.

"The class took up a flower fund for her," recalled Mrs. Gladys Thompson, substitute teacher. "They also made get well cards for her which we mailed right away."

The class used the flower money they collected to buy some fluffy blue scuffs. Mrs. Wiley had lots of flowers already and they were dying.

Besides, she had broken her (Continued on Page 8)

Veterans' Corner

Editor's Note: Below are some authoritative answers by the Veterans Administration to some of the many current questions from former servicemen and their families. Further information on veterans benefits may be obtained at any VA office or your local service organization representative.

Q — I am a veteran of World War II who has just reached his 65th birthday. Am I entitled to a VA pension?

A — You may be eligible provided your income from all sources does not exceed $2,300 a year if you are single, or $3,500 a year if you have dependents.

Q — Can an eligible veteran buy a used mobile home?

A — Yes, provided the used mobile home is the security for a loan previously made or guaranteed by VA, or for a loan guaranteed, insured or made by another Federal agency. However, present VA regulations provide only for loans on new mobile homes.

Q — Is the educational allowance I receive under the G.I. Bill taxable?

A — No. The Internal Revenue Service does not consider this benefit taxable income.

Q — Does the $12,500 or 60 per cent VA loan guaranty limit the amount I can pay for a home?

A — No. You can pay as much, or borrow as much as your ability to pay. However, VA will limit its guaranty to the amount you specified.

V. A. "CUTS RED TAPE"

As part of a continuing program to "cut red tape", Veterans Administration announced today that a lost birth certificate or marriage license will no longer be the big problem it once was for those who apply for veterans benefits. Less formal proof of marriage and birth is now acceptable under new VA regulations.

Officials noted that a new regulation became effective Oct. 27, and that it covers payments of compensation, pension, dependency and indemnity compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows, and orphan children.

ARE LEADERS BORN OR MADE? A&T PROGRAM SEEKS ANSWER

The age old argument continues as to whether leaders are born or made, but instead of just debating the point, A&T State University is trying to do something about this nation's apparent crisis in leadership.

Backed by a $40,000 grant from the North Carolina Leadership Institute Inc., A&T has come up with a unique program, designed to facilitate the identification, selection and development of future leaders.

A&T is one of three in the state, the others being at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, North Carolina State University at Raleigh and Davidson College.

Dr. William C. Parker, Director of the program at A&T, believes the A&T project has done much to motivate the 30 talented freshmen and sophomore participants.

"This program has permitted these students to come in contact with persons who are themselves in leadership positions and
