REYNOLDS SIGNS CONTRACT WITH WINSTON MUTUAL

Chas. B. Wade, Jr. senior vice president of R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company, signs a contract with Winston Mutual Life Insurance Company to provide group life insurance for RJR's seasonal employees. Watching Wade sign are A. W. McKnight (left), Secretary-Treasurer of Winston Mutual, and George E. Hill, president of the Winston-Salem-based insurance firm.

Winston-Salem, N. C.—Winston Mutual Life Insurance Co., a predominately black firm, has signed a contract with R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company to provide group life insurance for RJR's seasonal employees.

The contract represents the first between the two companies, and covers about 1,600 employees in Reynolds' leaf processing department.

"We are proud of the growth of Winston Mutual over the many years they have been doing business in Winston-Salem," said Chas. B. Wade, Jr., senior vice president of Reynolds. "This was a big factor in deciding to enter into this agreement."

George E. Hill, president of Mutual, said, "We are elated over beginning what we hope will be a long and happy relationship with a very good company."

Winston Mutual is a Winston-Salem-based company with total assets of $4.8 million. The firm was founded in 1906.

$85,000 Ultra Modern Mobile Lab Provides Setting for Nuclear Studies

By Richard Moore
A&T News Bureau

An $85,000 laboratory on wheels is making the study of physics come alive for students at A&T State University.

As a result of a loan of a fully equipped mobile training laboratory, the students and their faculty members are getting their course in learning to handle radioactive material in style.

The mobile radioisotope laboratory was secured for A&T under a special program of the Oak Ridge Associated Universities. The unit is sponsored by the U. S. Atomic Energy Commission. A&T will have use of the mobile unit for about three weeks and officials of the university really plan to keep it busy.

"We feel that we are very fortunate in being able to obtain this valuable piece of equipment," said Dr. Stuart Ahrens, a professor of physics at A&T.

"The study of nuclear science is becoming important in everyday life," he said. "The power reactor which Duke Power Company is to build is an example
