

The Future Outlook

Keep Up With The Times — Read The Future Outlook!

VOL. 32, NO. 22

GREENSBORO, NORTH CAROLINA, FRIDAY, MAY 5, 1972

PRICE: 10 CENTS

A&T President Receives Honor Key

Dr. Lewis C. Powdy, president of A&T State University, (left) receives Kappa Delta Pi Honor Key from Mrs. Anne Graves of the chapter. Dowdy and Dr. Charles L. Hayes, president of Albany State College, became the first persons honored by the chapter.

(Moore Photo)

Black Race Driver In Major Series

Southport, Conn. — "Blacks can now afford to go automobile racing and I may start a whole new trend," says Benny Scott, Long Beach, Calif., a black race driver who takes a serious shot at major league racing in the $45,000 L&M Grand Prix at Laguna Seca, Monterey, Calif. on May 7. The race for single-seat Formula race cars is the first in the nine-race series sponsored by L&M cigarettes. The L&M Continental 5000 Championship, sanctioned by The Sports Car Club of America, has attracted top international drivers from five countries.

Interviewed following a pre-race test session at the Laguna Seca track, Scott pointed out that blacks have been at a disadvantage in cracking auto racing. "Initially," he said, "auto racing starts out almost always

(Continued on Page 4)

FILMORE BURKE, JR.

College Youth Donates Kidney To Father

Filmore Burke, Jr., a student at A&T State University, is

(Continued on Page 16)

Sanford Attacks Corruption in Gov.

Democratic presidential candidate Terry Sanford charged Tuesday that "millions of dollars of taxpayers' money is going down the drain because of influence peddling and corruption in government."

In a statement released from his Durham headquarters, Sanford called for a crackdown on government corruption, urging immediate enforcement of the Corrupt Practices Act.

He also advocated the creation of offices at each level of government where citizens and government workers could take complaints of bribery and wrong-doing without fear of retaliation and harassment.

"In addition," Sanford continued, "I think the White House should intervene when a conscientious employee is disciplined for blowing the whistle on waste and improper actions."

In criticizing waste in government, he said, "We have reached a point where having connections in government is more important than serving the people and enforcing the laws. The special interests and lobbyists are getting rich while the average citizen is caught in a squeeze play between high taxes and inflation."

Sanford pointed to the ITT and Lockheed Aircraft cases as two examples of private interests getting special favors from government at the expense of the public.

"The ITT case is only the tip of the iceberg," Sanford said. "It is clear that private interests influenced the settlement of the ITT case, but the American people have not been allowed to hear the truth about what happened, and the people have lost out while ITT continues to grow bigger and bigger."

Sanford said the Defense Department paid Lockheed $1.1 billion more for the C5A airplane than the contract called for, and when a conscientious accountant reported the overrun to Congress, he was fired within 12 days.

"Furthermore, instead of penalizing Lockheed for its waste, the administration gave the company a loan of $250 million to bail it out of financial trouble — at the same time that it was vetoing money to put jobless people to work.

"That kind of help for the (Continued on Page 16)

A&T Nursing Students Earn Caps

Preparing for annual capping exercises at A&T State University School of Nursing are Doris Cooke, Camden, S. C.; Leonetta Williams, Hamlet, N. C.; and Beverly Brown, Petersburg, Va. A record 42 students earned their caps or chevrons.

(Photo by Moore)

42 NURSING STUDENTS CAPPED IN EXERCISES AT A&T STATE

A&T News Service

Miss Gwennella Lamberth of Greensboro a senior honor student in the School of Nursing at A&T State University, presented the annual address at the school's capping and chevron exercises in Richard B. Harrison Auditorium Sunday.

A total of 42 students, including one male student, received the emblems, which signify the completion of one half of the academic requirements in the four-year nursing program.

Winner of the Dr. C. C. Stewart Memorial Scholarship Award was Carolyn Wilkes. She was presented the award by Dr. Flo-tilla Watkins, president of the Greensboro Medical Society.

The Moses H. Cone Women's Auxiliary Award was won by Patricia Shelton and presented by Mrs. Thomas W. Hudson Jr., president of the auxiliary.

Cornie Cooke won the Medical-Surgical Nursing Award, presented by Dr. Carlton M. Harris of the Greensboro Academy of Medicine.

Judy Lawing won the L. Richardson Memorial Hospital Award, presented by Mrs. Henrietta Hargrove, the president.

Mrs. Sandra Montgomery Hicks of the Greensboro Teloca Chapter presented their annual award to Doris Cooke. The Washington, D. C., Teloca award went to Faith Nettles, Erma Smith and Majorie Strong.

Miss Linda Strayhorn and Ernestine Mann received special (Continued on Page 16)