Beer Will Help

Beer has become legal in states comprising about 69,000,000 people. It will become legal at various dates within the next four months in a group of other states. States that are unfriendly toward beer and are regarded as likely to remain so, comprise but about 12,000,000 of our population.

The principal reason for immediate legalization of beer were the joys it would provide, the money it would put to work. Indications are, shortly after its appearance, that it will live up to its expectations.

First result has been a sharp jump in employment, sizeable revenues to the federal, state and local governments and an increase in spending not only for beer, but for other articles. Railroads have hired additional crews to man beer trains. Related businesses, such as manufacture of bottles and mugs, report a sharp increase in business. Thousands of men are working remodeling breweries and building new ones.

Reliable figures will be difficult to obtain for some time, until the novelty of the thing has worn off and stabilization of the industry sets in. It seems, however, that it will do much in helping the cause of unemployment, purchasing power and governmental revenue.

Violating Fish Laws

Numerous reports have been sent in to the county game warden that the fishing laws of the state had been violated in the waters of Little River at the old roller mill pond.

These reports have it that persons had been seining, setting trot lines and using baskets to catch any kind of fish that might be possible regardless of kind or size.

The important part about it is that this has been going on out of season as well as in season.

The State is trying to make it possible for all men to share alike in their fishing sports and these people who persistently violate the fishing laws will eventually cause laws to be passed prohibiting the use of trot lines in any streams in the State, making a hardship not only on themselves but all others who want to uphold the fishing laws of our State.

This stream is stocked with bass, trout and catfish and the small catfish are being taken too small to use and in some instances have been thrown out on dry land to die instead of being placed back like any good citizen would do.

It is not the intention of the game wardens to embarrass or cause a cost to be imposed on any particular person, but to protect the interest of the law-abiding citizen and in most cases those who do abide by these fishing laws are those who contribute most towards making it possible to have fish for those who try to destroy them.

There can be no principle behind the act of any person who wishes the masses to suffer for the sins of a few, but if such violations continue, certain rights will be taken away from all sportsmen and for no other cause only the unprincipled acts of a few violators.

Agricultural Notes

By
F. H. JACKSON

The lambs which were not docked and castrated last year, were sold at a loss of about one cent per pound or 75 cents per head. This is a loss which no farmer should take on his lambs. Yet there are a few farmers in the county who have failed to dock and castrate their lambs this year.

If we are to get the most out of our farm products, we must produce what the markets demand. Our markets demand docked and castrated lambs that are fat. If we do not produce this kind of lambs we pay for it by taking low prices for our lambs. Too many of our lambs go on the market in poor condition. Lambs and ewes should be put on good grass from now until the lambs are sold. Where it is convenient to do so, it will pay to feed the lambs grain until they are marketed. This can be done by building a pen in the pasture and making an entrance to the pen through which only the lambs can enter. The lambs should be fed a liberal amount of wheat bran 1 part, corn meal 2 parts and they should be fed once each day.

Shearing time will soon be here and every farmer should make an effort to keep his wool free from paint, tags, and trash. The wool buyers last year were well pleased with the fine condition of the wool the farmers of this county sold. We should try to make our wool better this year. This can be done by cutting out all paint and tags before shearing. While shearing, keep the wool on cloth spreads or clean grass. Remember that the manufacturer who buys wool containing paint, trash and tags, will have to pay high priced labor to pick this foreign material out of the wool before it can be used, and he will of necessity have to pay less for the wool than he would pay for good clean wool.

Pool your lambs and wool with your township committee. Through pooling we are always able to get better prices.

A PICTURE OF MOTHER NATURE

By Ethelyn Richardson

Of all the artists that we know I think there's none so grand As Mother Nature when she takes The brushes in her hand.

She takes the dull drab canvass We've trodden beneath our feet That's aged and gray from winter's chill

Of snow and rain and sleet.

And deftly blends a soft background In delicate shade of green A sky in tints of azure blue She paints upon the scene.

A splash of yellow daffodills A purple violet bed A dogwood bush of creamy white She tints the maples red.

She goes so quietly at her work We scarcely hear a murmur Until she sets before our eyes The finished picture, "Summer."
