

STATE SCHOOL COMMISSION TO HEAR PETITIONS OF SCHOOL PATRONS TODAY

Much Agitation About The Two-Mile Limit In Transportation

North Carolina's State School Commission will find itself on a "two mile" spot when it meets here Thursday.

For some days now the commission's ruling that no children living within two miles of a school could ride buses has been the center of a state-wide controversy and yesterday a Forsyth County group announced it would carry its fight for transportation for all school children directly to the Governor and to the Commission and would ask for a school holiday until the problem is settled.

LeRoy Martin, executive secretary to the Commission admitted yesterday that the 1933 school law did not prohibit the hauling of children who live within two miles of the school. "As a matter of fact, the law doesn't say children living within that limit cannot be ridden to school. The law is written in the affirmative, saying the commission shall provide transportation for children living two miles or more from the school. There are no funds available to provide transportation inside that limit," Mr. Martin said.

The Winston-Salem group, known as the Forsyth County School League on September 21 adopted a series of resolutions demanding that "all public consolidated schools of rural Forsyth county be closed until transportation is provided for all school children desiring transportation. The resolutions also stated that such action would be asked as of September 25—yesterday—but news dispatches from Winston-Salem last night indicated that the step had not been taken.

The League, through its president, C. Landis Stovall, presented Mr. Martin with a copy of the resolutions last week. Martin replied that he would present them to the Commission, adding that he felt sure the Commission would be glad to receive suggestions from the League as to how its program could be carried out with the limited funds available for school purposes.

A delegation of three persons from Davidson county conferred with Martin yesterday regarding the two-mile situation in that County. The delegation wanted permission to use buses to transport children living within 1.8 miles of school.

The delegation told Martin that the highway over which children had to walk to schools was a "spedway" for automobiles and said that use of buses would be advisable as a safety measure for the children.

Martin said that Davidson county was contemplating operation of a bus purchased by itself, hoping to secure the necessary funds from collections on delinquent taxes. "Any county can follow that program if it desires," Martin said.

Petitions have been received from a number of communities other than Forsyth, Martin said. Included are the following:

- Davidson County, asking that the smaller children be allowed to use buses.
- Durham County, asking that a one-mile limit be fixed.
- Harnett County, asking a one and one-half mile limit.
- Vance County, asking a one-mile limit.
- Rockingham County, asking a one-half mile limit.

"Some of the petitions did not bear more than a dozen or so names" Martin declared. "Others, of course, are more representative."

Martin said he did not believe there would be many delegations present for the Commission's meeting Thursday. "We already have all the facts," he explained.

FARM NEWS

BY W. B. COLLINS, County Agent.

Our Fair will start on Friday morning, October 6th. All exhibits should be brought in by noon that day, so that they may be judged. The judging will start at 2:00 P. M. Friday. We are making an effort to get all the premiums here, so that we can pay off all prizes won, at the time the judging is done.

We have secured competent judges for each department of the Fair and feel confident that the judging will be fair to everyone.

There is a prize of $5.00 for the school which makes the best exhibit of farm and home products, and a $2.50 prize for the second best exhibit. The school exhibits have been one of the best features of our fair in the past, and we hope that a number of teachers will assist the schools in making exhibits this year.

With the good crops and fat farm animals in this county this year we should have an agricultural exhibit far better than we have ever had before. Every farmer in the county should take enough pride in his accomplishments to bring the best products of his farm to the Fair and show his neighbors what he is producing. If every farmer in the county would do his best to make a good exhibit at the Fair, we would have a Fair second to none in this section of the State.

Remember that Saturday will be the Big Day! Horse Racing, Ball Game, Brass Band of music, and games of all kinds for your entertainment. THE ALLEGHANY COUNTY AGRICULTURAL FAIR—TWO BIG DAYS—FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, OCT. 6th and 7th. EVERYBODY WILL BE HERE—BE SURE YOU COME!

All patrons are cordially invited to attend Chapel Tuesday morning, Oct. 3rd, at 8:45 A. M., when Governor R. A. Doughton will lecture on "The Good Samaritan."

The Sparta baseball team played Glade Valley Tuesday afternoon on the Glade Valley diamond, the score resulting 9 to 5 in Sparta's favor.

"Two Days to Marry," a comedy, full of fun and romance, will be presented by the Sparta Faculty on Friday evening, October 6th, at 8:00 o'clock. The characters are as follows:
Simon P. Chase, as black as his race, Burton McCann.
James J. Dare, a wifeless heir—Herbert Estep.
Ruford B. Sawyer, a timid lawyer, Chas. R. Roe.
Emily Jane Ping, as black as ink, Mrs. Clyde Collins.
Sadie L. Boise, a widow by choice, Mrs. Dalton Warren.
Imogene McShane, the sweet young thing—Miss Elizabeth Lambert.
Walter M. Blair, a millionaire, Claude Miles.

Admission: 15 and 25 cents. On Friday and Saturday of the Fair, Sparta high school will operate a lunch counter in the exhibit hall. An adequate and appetizing meal can be had for twenty-five cents. Sandwiches and drinks will also be sold. Proceeds will be used to purchase school supplies and any patronage will be appreciated.

An additional high school teacher has been granted by the State Board. Miss Ina Gene Reeves of Laurel Springs has been elected and will begin work Monday morning, October 2nd.

"NO PORK BARREL" IN WORKS PROJECT

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) tioning new public buildings among various localities, that we are finding the greatest pressure brought upon us.

"Ever since the days when ancient Rome built her wonderful roads, drain age canals, and aqueducts, there have been attempts to use public works for public plunder. In America, a public works system has often been justly called a 'pork barrel' system. By this system each Congressman tried to get as large an appropriation for his own district as possible, without regard to whether the building, harbors, or rivers improvements were really necessary or desirable. No legislator dared to object to the wasteful items of his colleagues for fear of imperiling his own share of the gravy. Research men say that in the past a good half of our public appropriations has been wasted in this way.

"In recent years a check has been put on such practices by requiring approval of a project by army engineers or the head of the Federal department involved. But the essential evil of the pork barrel, which consists of basing local appropriations for Federal public works on temporary or political advantage, instead of considering permanent national utility, remained until the dawn of the present public works program which was approved June 16, last. It is the greatest public works plan ever attempted.

our national policy, is that Congress appropriate a lump-sum and turn it over to the President, who, through a Public Works Administration, may spend it according to a national need and a national plan.

"This change is a revolutionary one. It is in line with what students of government have been urging for years. Whether we shall stick to the new policy in the future, or return to the pork barrel, depends upon how honestly, impartially, and ably the present fund is administered.

"But the new policy does not change human nature. The appetite for pork, pampered for a century, cannot be legislated out of existence by an act of Congress."
