considered the Rayburn bill now before the Congress? Some of our native Tar Heels have, and here are their conclusions briefly: the Rayburn bill would take control and management of privately owned properties out of owners' hands and put it in the hands of the federal government; it would destroy the power of State regulatory authorities; it takes powers of review away from the federal courts and gives them to commissions, it provides government ownership in effect without benefit of purchase; it would mean a broad-jump toward socialism; it would depress the market value of stocks and bonds of operating companies, held by thousands of North Carolinians. Some of our own North Carolina people, who do not profess to love power companies, can't find any affection for that sort of thing. Maybe the Rayburn bill doesn't do those things but a lot of folks believe it holds these powers? What's your idea?

TOO MUCH — Representative McDonald and Lumpkin evidently over-stepped their bounds in recommending such heavy increases in taxes on power companies. They even admitted that property tax reductions had been recaptured more than 100 per cent on power companies and then sought to increase their taxes further in the face of diminishing returns. The boys in the House are looking for money but they couldn't figure as how they could honestly get it from the power companies now facing tax-free federal competition. At least that's what they said in effect on the floor of the House—and most of them would like to reduce the sales tax rate for personal and political reasons.

NEEDS DOUGH—Friends of Congressman Hancock think he is an ideal candidate to oppose Senator Josiah W. Bailey in the Democratic primaries next spring. They believe the Oxford Congressman would listen to their pleas but for one thing—MONEY. It is known by one and all that you need the long green to run for the United States Senate from North Carolina and everybody knows that Mr. Hancock has no money to burn. It is said however that Senator Bailey's financial condition will easily stand the strain of another Senatorial campaign.

POLITICS — Newspapermen have construed certain remarks by Secretary Wallace, head of U. S. Department of Agriculture, as charging that Governor Ehringhaus is playing politics in attempting to get the AAA to lower the tobacco crop allotment for next year. When Wallace spoke in Raleigh several weeks ago it was plain that he and the Governor were not in complete accord on the tobacco program. Governor Ehringhaus thinks the parity price this year should be about 26 or 27 cents while the AAA is talking about calling it 21 cents and increasing production to hold the price around that figure. Governor Ehringhaus denies that he is seeking votes for the Senate next year and insists that he is only following through on the strokes he made in 1933 and 1934 to boost weed prices and improve conditions in the tobacco belt.

CAN'T TAKE IT—Senator Teague, of Wayne County, is one dry member of the Legislature who is voting his personal as well as political convictions and he does not believe the Hill bill to put the State in the business of selling liquor will become a law at this session. The only time Senator Teague ever set aside his personal convictions in favor of political ones was when he tore his shirt for Al Smith in 1928. Speaking of the Hill bill Senator Teague said: "I do not believe these men will vote for the liquor bill when their names are called for the printed record." It is no secret that many measures would pass were it not for roll calls and record votes.

WRONG GENERAL — Many legislative observers express the opinion that anti-sales tax forces showed a lack of judgment when they commissioned Representative McDonald, of Forsyth, to lead the fight for substitute measures. They believe that Representative Lumpkin, of Franklin, could have done a much better job as pilot of the McDonald-Lumpkin bloc. Lumpkin is a personable fellow and is credited with possessing more horse-sense than the average "left-winger." McDonald apparently rubs a lot of folks the wrong way and there be people in these parts who say that fault has cost the sales tax substitutes considerable support.

No longer will there be mistakes about the identities of policemen. They'll wear uniforms in New York, skirts of blue serge and shirts of broadcloth with black four-in-hand ties with a double-breasted blue jacket and a star conspicuously worn. Topping it all, there'll be a blue serge cap similar to the overseas caps worn by women during the war.

Prideful, "progressive" New York still recognizes only one ground for divorce—adultery. Hence, circumvention. A friend, Emile C. Schnurmacher writes in the April issue of Real America that investigation shows the "collusion girl" employed in at least 90% of New York divorces to furnish evidence. She gets $50 per job and averages two jobs a week. "No witness has ever been held for perjury," he writes, "and there is record of but one divorce lawyer who was disbarred for subordination of perjury in divorce cases."

In New York's recent elevator strike, Gabriel Abeles who modestly calls himself "the greatest auctioneer in the world" decided 18 flights was too much. So he telephoned his secretary who had climbed. She wanted coffee. He got it—in a two quart can. She lowered a string, but a patrolman refused to let it go up.

Chagrined, "the greatest auctioneer" tried to auction off the coffee. He finally gave it to a passing boy.

In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.
