'We Miss You Daddy, When Are You Coming Home?"

The following editorial was printed in the Rockville, Connecticut, Journal, about a year ago. Thereafter, to the editor's surprise, it was reprinted by most of the other papers of the state, and was used by highway safety officials, insurance companies, accident prevention organizations, motorists' publications and by others who are fighting the great war against the toll of automobile deaths. Here it is-and any motorist will surely think twice about taking chances after reading it:

"Tuesday morning there was a fatal accident on the Minterburn Hill and when the medical examiner was going through the pockets of the dead man . . . a telegram was found. It was not very long, just the ordinary ten-word length, but it was a message that would make any father happy. It read: WE MISS YOU DADDY. WHEN ARE YOU COMING HOME?

"That was all. It was a message sent by one of the children of the man who was killed. He had received the message and was homeward bound. The clothes were minus money but in his pocket he carried that message.

"Those who have little children, and those who were once little children, can think of the great blow to the child when the father did return home-

"'Daddy' will be missed by those children in the very long years ahead. No longer will they have his support, his earnings, and, more important, his companionship.

"If ever there was a reason for people driving more carefully on the road, it is that they might get in an accident and deprive their own child or some other child of their 'Daddy'.

"More might be written, but just let us repeat those words: 'We miss you, Daddy. When are you coming home?' "

Just A Little Comparison Of Russian And American "Freedom"

Twenty-eight years ago a Russian by the name of William Feldman came to this country and set-tled at Charleston, S. C. A few months ago he made a return trip to his native land. Upon his return he discussed with a reporter of the Charleston News and Courier some of his impressions.

"Wherever I went, people told me they were just like in America; they were free," Mr. Feldman said. "I told them that over here, I could take a box and put it on a street corner and get up and shout that I didn't like the president or the mayor or the governor, and that if I did that over there I would be dead in the morning. I told them that if I said anything good about the people who had been put out of office I would be dead in the

"They said this to me: 'That's right, but you see there is nothing to say against the people in office and there is nothing good to say about people out of office. So why should we want to get up, on a box and say those things that were not true?" "

That is typical of suppressed peoples dominated by dictatorships, which keep them in ignorance of comparisons which might be odious.

600,000 Species Of Insects And More Being Discovered Every Year

The wonderful progress made in the line of preventive medicine in the last few decades points the way to those of us in many other lines of human endeavor. Most of us like to read about the great discoveries of scientists who save millions of dollars annually for others by discovering some way to prevent semething from happening.

Farm boys and girls who read this will be interested to learn that there are estimated to be 600,000 species of insects, and more are being discovered every year. Many of them, like the boll weevil, the corn borer, the coddling moth, the potato beetle, the clothes moth and others, levy enormous toll upon the profits of superior man, who, it seems, is unable, with all his intelligence, to combat their ravages.

There is hardly a home in this country but where some of these insects have levied a tax on the touse-money. Besides, there are the mice and the ats which are to be found nearly everywhere, and whose activities cost us huge sums each year.

Any school child in this section has plenty of pportunity to study the habits of these pests and, ossibly, to find out some way to destroy them. lesides rendering great service to the human race such a discovery the enhancement of the family urse would be immense.

One of the four grand divisions of the Bible is that of the prophetical writings, consisting of the one of his messages of doom, pre-four major and twelve minor dicting the punishment of various prophets. This classification applies to the length rather than the importance of the message contained in the books. Amos is the most ancient of these prophetic writings. It emphasizes four points, namely, first, the evil life of Israel at the time; second, the righteousness and indignation take the easier course of conjudgment and punishment without Amos repudiated by proclaiming repentance; and fourth, that As-
