

Forgotten Hospital,
Complete, Is Found

Forgotten for half a century, a hospital has been found on the seacoast of Denmark, and government officials are considering what to do with it. It was built in 1879 for cholera patients, there having been a recurrence was expected. Soon after the opening a sailor believed to have had the dread disease, was admitted. He proved to have nothing worse than measles. No other patients came, and the place was closed and forgotten.

A young journalist found the hospital, with everything complete, from beds ready to use, to medicines and salt cellars containing salt put there 54 years ago. The discoverer has suggested that it be converted into a vacation resort for poor children of Copenhagen.—Montreal Herald.

The lady customer entered store and headed straight for the proprietor. "You sold me some rotten apples yesterday," she said, "and I'm bringing them back to you." "That's all right, lady," has apologized the merchant. "I needn't have taken the trouble to bring them back. Your word's just as good as the apples."
